NINE BUSINESS CHIEFS TO GUIDE CITY'S REBIRTH

Seek New Industries for Chicagoland.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

(Pictures on Page 3.)

Nine business men were appointed yesterday to guide a long range program for a greater Chicago. They were chosen from businesses and industries that helped make Chicago a great city. They are undertaking to lift the city from its ruts, revitalize it, and send it forward.

Oscar G. Mayer.

The appointments were announced by Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which has launched the Greater Chicago campaign. Chief objectives of the campaign are to bring new industries to the city, to provide better living and working conditions for its citizens, and to reawaken in the whole Chicago area the vigorous, forward-looking spirit that once was summarized in the words "I Will."

Plan $600,000 Expenditure.

The association plans to spend $600,000 for these purposes. The money will be used to carry out the campaign and to advertise Chicago's business and recreational advantages throughout the nation.

Before starting the drive the association of commerce will gather from all quarters of the city the ideas of business and civic leaders on what should be done to make the program successful. The committee appointed yesterday will sift the thousands of suggestions and then make its recommendations. Members are:

FREDERICK D. CORLEY, president of Marshall Field & Co.

JOHN T. PIRIE, president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.

COL. ALBERT A. SPRAGUE, co-receiver of the elevated lines.

ROBERT H. CABELL, president of Armour & Co.

CHARLES G. DAWES, former Vice President of the United States.

EDWARD L. RYERSON JR., vice chairman of the Inland Steel company.

LAWRENCE A. DOWNS, chairman of the Illinois Central railroad.

BERTRAM J. CAHN, chairman of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Inc.

EDWARD E. BROWN, president of the First National bank of Chicago.

The association of commerce wants to know two things about Chicago: First, what are the city's ills? Second, what should be done to turn the ills into assets?

Business Clinics Opened.

The association has begun a series of business clinics in an effort to answer these questions. Two clinics already have been held and there will be 100 more, Mr. Mayer said. They will be held in every section of the city, he explained, until the association has the ideas of every one interested. Then the committee of nine will sift the collection of ideas for the best ones.

"We are not being exclusive in these clinics," said Mr. Mayer. "This is not only a campaign for business men. We want to hear from women's clubs, parent-teacher groups, and all other alert Chicago organizations.

"Our studies will be exhaustive. Many civic as well as business benefits may be expected. If we can meet the city's most acute needs there should be better living and better business for all."

Four Steps Urged.

Those who attended the first two clinics appeared to agree that the following steps should be taken to hasten Chicago's march forward:

1. Collection of delinquent taxes, reduction of present taxes, and a workable tax base for the future.

2. Rehabilitation of depreciated land areas. This would be accomplished by the coöperation of civic organizations. A major step will be the passage of the public building corporation bill now before the state legislature. This would permit publicly regulated building corporations to acquire land in slum areas through condemnation.

3. Improvement in labor conditions so industry may operate without costly strife.

4. Development of a system of streets and elevated highways to end congestion and save lives.

JUVENILE COURT MADE HOT SPOT BY SOB SISTERS

Veteran Judges Shy from Its Troubles.

Outrages by inmates of St. Charles School for Boys have become a scandal. Residents of the Fox river valley live in fear of attacks by young ruffians who walk away from the unwalled institution. Thirty-nine have escaped since Jan. 1. Half of the institution's inmates are sent to the school by Judge Frank H. Bicek of the Cook county Juvenile court.

In view of these developments, a Tribune reporter has made a study of the workings of the court. Below is the first of his articles.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The Juvenile court is known among the judges of the Circuit court as the hot spot of the judiciary. It is an assignment judges dodge. They say that no matter how sincere and independent they resolve to be they cannot escape the influence, direct or indirect, of the so-called sob sister element of social workers.

Judge Frank H. Bicek of Juvenile court.

As a result of the judicial aversion to the court and its multiplicity of duties, many of them purely administrative, the job usually is saddled on a new judge who does not carry enough political weight to dodge the assignment. Once a judge is burdened with the juvenile bench, admittedly a man sized job, he is likely to be kept on it. No one else wants the job.

Once a Desirable Post.

The Juvenile court once was considered a desirable judicial post and a place of honor. It became a bugaboo as it grew and took on added duties which brought it more under the sway of the professional social workers.

The Juvenile court, which is in the Juvenile home at Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue, is completely dominated by the judge. He has the right to hire and fire any or all of the employés. He takes complete responsibility for any shortcomings in the court, just as he gets any credit due for its administration.

Some responsible authorities say the court has got out of hand because of the dozens of duties piled on the judge's shoulders by new laws since it was established. This judge handles more cases either directly or indirectly in one year than the entire Criminal court handles in five years. It is estimated that the Juvenile court handles 10,000 cases a year. A staff of fourteen employés is required in the clerk's office to handle the records.

Founded in 1899.

The Juvenile court was founded in 1899 under the late Judge Richard S. Tuthill. It was a small affair during the régimes of Judge Tuthill and Judge Julian W. Mack. The court started to grow slowly to its octopus size after Judge Merritt W. Pinckney took charge in 1908. He served until 1914.

The court expanded greatly under the direction of the late Judge Victor P. Arnold, who served from 1915 to 1927. It began to administer mothers' pensions and to provide private homes for orphans. Judge Arnold, a former assistant state's attorney, apparently saw the court beginning to be overrun with young toughs because he established corporal punishment, much to the horror of the professional social workers. He supervised spankings of incorrigibles by their parents.

Judge Mary Bartelme, the only woman ever to sit as a judge in Cook county, was Judge Arnold's assistant. For a time both sat as judges and it resulted in constant friction, according to veteran employés. Each wanted to be boss. She took his place when he died in May, 1929. Judge Bartelme did not run for reelection, and Judge Frank H. Bicek,

ST. LOUIS BOAT WINS TIME RACE OVER TWO CALIFORNIA STEAMERS

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—(AP)—The deer horns trophy, symbolical of the winner of a steamboat race, belonged to the Mississippi river packet, Golden Eagle, when it finished a 128 mile run to Cape Girardeau, Mo., early today in 9 hours and 10 minutes. The steamer left St. Louis at 6:04 p. m. Saturday and crossed the finish line at Cape Girardeau at 3:14 a. m. Its average speed was 13.8 miles an hour.

The other two contestants in this race—against time—were the California boats, Delta King and Delta Queen. The winner was determined by the best average miles per hour made on the three trips.

The Delta King took 8 hours and 28 minutes for a 90 mile trip down the San Joaquin river from Stockton, Cal., to San Francisco, an average of 11.54 miles per hour. Its sister ship, the Delta Queen, made the 110 mile run down the Sacramento river from Sacramento to San Francisco in 9 hours and 39 minutes, at an average speed of 11.4 miles per hour.

Owners of the California boats conceded victory to the Golden Eagle in a telegram to Owner Captain Henry Leyhe.

Franco Gives Property Back to Exiled King

BURGOS, Spain, April 23.—(AP)—The Nationalist [Franco] government acted today to restore to former King Alfonso XIII. of Spain and all his relatives to the fourth degree the private properties they owned in Spain before the republic was proclaimed on April 14, 1931.

[The degrees of lineal blood relationship are reckoned as one degree for each person in the line of descent, exclusive of him from whom the computation begins.]

Generalissimo Francisco Franco ordered all forfeitures of their holdings erased, and declared null and void the action of the constitutional cortes [parliament] which deprived Alfonso of his private patrimony.

Applies to All Banks.

The action was taken through a ministry of finance decree which applied to every class of property formerly owned by Alfonso and his kin.

It directed persons now in possession of the holdings to declare their interests through ministry representatives within thirty days. The order applies to banks, corporations, and individuals asserting claims on any of the properties.

Alfonso, whose reign began on May 17, 1902, left Spain on April 15, 1931, the day after he had signed a manifesto giving up the throne but renouncing "none of my rights."

The former monarch's principal private holdings were two palaces, at Santander and at San Sebastian, and the Island of Cortejada, off Galicea.

Among Richest Monarchs.

Alfonso was one of the richest monarchs of his time, having inherited $3,500,000 from his mother, a fortune which he increased by investments.

An inventory by the provisional republican government which ousted him placed the wealth of the royal family at $8,600,000, but this included scanty data on his foreign holdings.

The fragmentary aspect of this inventory was emphasized by the valuation of his palace at Santander at less than $7,500 and the confession of the appraisers that they could not determine how the $3,500,000 inheritance had been distributed.

There was no indication whether Alfonso, who now is in Rome, would return to Spain. The possibility of restoration of the monarchy in Spain has not been mentioned in any Franco declaration for more than two years.

HUNT LOST AMATEUR NATURALIST IN WILD JUNGLES OF FLORIDA

Key Largo, Fla., April 23.—(AP)—Three hundred men and four airplanes searched a tangled jungle of mangrove trees today for Dr. John F. Folk, retired Bridgeport, W. Va., physician, who disappeared Friday while hunting tree snails. No trace has been found of the amateur naturalist, who is 70 years old and weighs only 91 pounds.

Arrow locates Key Largo.

Dr. Folk became lost when, returning to Miami from Key West on the overseas highway, he saw unusual types of snails in the trees and asked his four companions to wait while he collected them. He expected to be gone only 15 minutes, but when he failed to reappear a search was started.

A PET CANARY GIVES THE BIRD TO HIS OWNER

This is a story of an ungrateful bird. James McFarlane, 2018 North Clark street, thought not only of himself when he started out for a ride yesterday. He took the family canary with him.

The canary was in its cage. The automobile windows were open. McFarlane drove along when suddenly he saw the canary fly out of the window of the automobile as he passed Division and Clark streets. He chased it without success. He called the Hudson avenue police station and reported his loss.

"A canary, eh?" Sergt. Myles Kilbane replied. "Describe it please."

Crowds Cheer Crown Prince and Princess

BY MARCIA WINN.

Crown Prince Frederik, tall, unassuming heir to the throne of Denmark and Iceland, and Crown Princess Ingrid received a royal Chicago welcome on their arrival here last night.

On hand to greet them were 132 picked soldiers from the 31st coast artillery at Fort Sheridan, who formed an escort of honor; 50 uniformed policemen, and 2,500 jubilant persons with little red and white Danish flags in their coat lapels. A thick royal red carpet had been spread for their feet.

Even the crown prince, who must be used to it, looked impressed as he and his sweet faced young wife emerged from the Milwaukee road's Hiawatha into the Union station. They had come from Minneapolis.

Prince Wears Navy Uniform.

Tall, dark haired and blue eyed, Prince Frederik abruptly dismissed the smiling dimples he had been showering upon his greeters to stand in stiff salute as the escort presented arms. He wore the uniform of a Danish naval captain.

A few feet behind him during this ceremonial was the crown princess, demure daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden. She stood almost alone, a huge bouquet of pink roses pressed against her blue suit.

As the coast artillery band, resplendent in shining steel helmets, played first the Danish anthem, "Kong Christian Stodvet Holen Mast," then the Icelandic "O Gud Vors Lands," and finally "The Star Spangled Banner," Princess Ingrid stood immobile. Cameramen took innumerable speed-flash photographs of her, but not a muscle twitched.

Countess Reventlow in Party.

The royal couple, Denmark's No. 1 international good will sales team, arrived at 7:30 p. m. With them came a retinue of eleven persons. These included his excellency, Otto Wadsted, Danish minister to the United States; Countess Sybille Reventlow, sister-in-law of the former Barbara Hutton, lady-in-waiting to the crown princess; two valets, two maids, and others.

They had a private drawing room parlor car for the 410 mile trip from Minneapolis. The crown prince spent much of his time, according to Porter William Owens, munching chocolate bars, drinking beer, and switching from side to side of the train to wave at spectators.

Consul Reimund Baumann, top hat and brief case in hand, and Mrs. Baumann, bearing the pink roses, were the first to greet the visitors. They entered the royal car, from which Prince Frederik and Princess Ingrid soon emerged, amiably obedient to the strident requests of "Just one more, please!" from cameramen.

Smiles a Lot; Says Little.

Aside from brief, smiling asides to his wife and members of the reception committee, headed by A. K. Mose, the crown prince said little. Countess Reventlow, blonde and caped in silver fox, said the royal couple are enjoying their American tour "terribly." "Personally," she said, "I love it!"

A motorcycle escort guided the party to the Stevens hotel, where they are staying. A half hour later the crown prince, neatly attired in a dark blue suit with a thin chalk stripe, a snap-brim brown felt hat on his head, and the crown princess, wearing a soft rose coral coat and hat with a flowered print dress, began their official duties in Chicago. They went to church.

The service, held in the Danish Trinity Lutheran church, was completely in Danish. The royal party sat in the front in chairs placed at right angles to the chancel. At the conclusion of the service the prince and princess were introduced to deacons and other officials by the Rev. A. W. Andersen.

Veteran, 99, Gets Royal Bow.

J. K. Jensen, president of the church board, was the first to receive a royal handshake. The second was a bowed, white haired little man, 99 years old. When told that he was Terman Jorgenson, who fought in the war between Denmark and Germany in 1864, the prince gravely bowed to him.

The royal party will have their headquarters in Chicago until Wednesday morning. This morning they will drive to Racine, Wis., for a luncheon and reception, stopping at the Danish Old People's home in Norwood Park on the way back. Tonight they will attend a musical and reception given by Consul and Mrs. Baumann at the Woman's Athletic club.

CHAMBERLAIN AGAIN TRIES TO PACIFY HITLER

France Expected to Follow Suit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 23.—The British parliament announced tonight that Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, is on his way back to his post in Berlin. Henderson was recalled from Germany on March 17, ostensibly to report on the situation resulting from Reichsfuehrer Hitler's seizure of Czecho-Slovakia.

Sir Nevile Henderson.

The government's decision to return the ambassador to Berlin was reached by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax over the week-end. The action aroused suspicions among opposition quarters that Chamberlain has projected a new appeasement campaign and is making strenuous efforts to pacify Hitler. Nevertheless dispatches from many sections of the empire told of British moves to reënforce defenses and other preparations for possible outbreak of war.

[British fleet movements and reenforcement of troops in Egypt to protect the entrance of the Suez canal in the eastern Mediterranean were reported yesterday. Britain and Egypt now have 50,000 troops manning the Egyptian frontier defenses. Troops from India were reported on their way to Aden, at the southern end of the Red sea. All along Britain's lifeline to the far east the British were on the alert. Hongkong defenses were being strengthened to resist any joint attack by Japan, Italy, and Germany. An air force base was established in Iraq to protect the oil pipe line there. Details on Page 2.]

May Demand Explanation.

Laborites were expected to demand an explanation by Chamberlain in the house of commons tomorrow or Tuesday on Henderson's return to Berlin.

A few days ago Halifax told the house of lords that Henderson would go back to Berlin as soon as he had completed his vacation, but there were no indications the ambassador would return so soon.

The sending of Henderson to Germany is in contrast to President Roosevelt's withholding of ambassadorial representation of the United States in Germany. Hugh R. Wilson, American ambassador to Berlin, left Germany Nov. 14, 1938. He was summoned to Washington, D. C., by Mr. Roosevelt to report following the German anti-Jewish drive.

Diplomatic circles assumed that the British ambassador's return to Berlin has to do with events pending this week. These events will reach a climax on Friday when Hitler will deliver his vital reply to Mr. Roosevelt's peace appeal before the reichstag.

Expect Hitler to Return Envoy.

It was reported that Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, German ambassador to Great Britain, has been instructed to return to the Nazi embassy in London. Hitler called home Von Dirksen the day after the British government told Henderson to come to London.

There were reports that the French government was preparing to follow the British lead and send its ambassador, Robert Coulondre, back to Berlin. He was recalled at the same time as Henderson.

European diplomats speculated on President Roosevelt's position as a result of the British action.

They consider the President has taken such a drastic position in condemning the head of the German government that Britain's decision to restore full diplomatic relations with Berlin becomes incomprehensible.

Europe Settles Own Problems.

Other events tended to show that the nations of Europe might be settling their problems without the aid gratuitously offered by Mr. Roosevelt and possibly in spite of him.

ment of the problems appeared, however, to be on the basis that Germany is going to be more successful in organizing the countries of central Europe in an economic union than Britain is going to be in organizing them into a military alliance to encircle the reich.

[Mr. Roosevelt on Saturday, April 15, called upon Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy for guarantees of nonaggression for at least ten years and possibly a quarter of a century. The President offered his personal services as an intermediary between the dictators and thirty-one nations of Europe.]

With Italy apparently having induced Jugo-Slavia to line up with the Rome-Berlin axis and enter a pact with Hungary and Bulgaria—which will mean the end of the Balkan entente—Rumania's foreign minister, Grigore Gafencu, arrived in London tonight for consultations with the British government.

Gafencu came to London after having talked with Col. Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, in Warsaw, and with Hitler, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, and other Nazi leaders in Berlin.

Fight for Economic Control.

Gafencu's discussions with British leaders may show the extent to which England might be successful in her struggle with Germany for economic control of central Europe. The talks also may indicate how far London has progressed in attempts to induce Poland and Rumania to tighten their military alliance to form a barrier against Germany.

[Britain and France have pledged their support to Rumania in defense of her independence. England has concluded a mutual assistance agreement with Poland.]

The welcome given the Rumanian foreign minister lacked the cordiality extended to Col. Beck when he came here three weeks ago to make his deal with the British. It was perhaps significant that the Turkish and Polish ambassadors, the Greek minister and the Jugo-Slav charge d'affaires were at the station to greet Gafencu. Their welcome seemed to overwhelm that extended by Halifax.

Gafencu will confer tomorrow with Halifax and Chamberlain. Their talks will be resumed Tuesday. Gafencu's arrival in London coincides with the arrival of a British economic mission in Bucharest, the Rumanian capital. This mission is trying to offset the recently concluded commercial agreement between Germany and Rumania.

WATCHMAN HELD AS ACCOMPLICE IN BURNING OF LINER

LE HAVRE, April 23.—(AP)—Caesar Franck, 19 years old, an Alsatian watchman, was charged with incendiarism today by an examing magistrate seeking the cause of the fire which swept the liner Paris at her dock last Tuesday.

Magistrate André Curbelier, in ordering the arrest of Franck, said there were contradictions in his story of the part he played in discovering the fire and evidence at least of negligence which prevented quicker action by firemen. Incendiarism is punishable by death, but the charge was considered a means of holding Franck incommunicado until detectives have satisfied themselves on all aspects of the case for which foreign agents were believed responsible.

Detectives said Franck confessed that he had not made his customary round of inspection, delaying discovery of the fire and allowing time in which it gained considerable headway. Investigators have shown that the fire broke out in several places at once.

BRITAIN MASSES ARMY IN EGYPT; CALLS RESERVES

Warships Gather in Port Near Suez Canal.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, April 23.—(AP)—An undisclosed number of reenforcements arrived here today by British transport as this port grew increasingly important as a British Mediterranean naval base.

Britain and Egypt now have at least 50,000 troops to man Egyptian frontier defenses, including reservists called up by the Egyptian government.

More warships were expected to reenforce the fifteen which recently have arrived at this vital junction of empire arteries near the northern entrance to the Suez canal.

Fleet to Leave Malta.

VALETTA, Malta, April 23.—(AP)—More than thirty warships of Britain's Mediterranean fleet are to leave Malta on Wednesday for a cruise in the eastern Mediterranean. Neither their destination nor the purpose of the cruise was disclosed by an official announcement of the naval movement today.

[An admiralty spokesman in London described the movement as "an ordinary spring cruise." He said the ships would not put into any ports and that the duration of the cruise had not been decided.]

The bulk of the British Mediterranean fleet was concentrated at this island fortress following the Italian conquest of Albania, but in the past few days a number of units have gone to Alexandria, Egypt.

Troops Sail from India.

BOMBAY, India, April 23.—(AP)—A force of 250 Indian troops sailed today for an unspecified destination believed to be Aden, British protectorate and seaport in southwest Arabia. Military authorities acknowledged that troop movements from India were unusual at this time of year.

BRITISH ON THE ALERT

BY LLOYD LEHRBAS.

ROME, April 23.—(AP)—Britain's "lifeline" to the far east has been galvanized into defensive action by the war clouds hovering over Europe.

A six-day flight from Hongkong which I completed today disclosed that the British were on the alert and swiftly preparing for any eventuality that might threaten their far-flung possessions in the near and far east.

British civilians all along the way openly were discussing the safest places to send their families in the event of hostilities.

In Hongkong, where war talk immediately brings up the possibility of Japan joining Germany and Italy in any conflict, the British acknowledge they are apprehensive of a Japanese attack on the crown colony.

Speed Up Defense Works.

Army and navy commanders are hurrying defense works begun when Japan's designs on South China threatened British interests in the orient.

An air-raid precaution program is under way, British reservists are active, and the Hongkong government has published a decree authorizing the internment of any aliens in the colony.

Bangkok's foreigners, mostly British, animatedly are discussing the rôle that Siam might play in any war in the far east. Japanese are increasingly active in Siam, attempting to incubate a Pan-Asiatic movement, while the British are doing all in their power to keep Siam from coming under Japan's influence.

Rangoon's newspapers feature Burma's defense precautions, including plans for protection of the only two areas considered to be in danger of aerial bombardment by any enemy.

Reservoir for Troops.

Indian newspapers devote extensive space to European developments and possible repercussions of them in India.

India is a vast reservoir of troops for any operations in the near east or eastern Mediterranean area.

British officers of the Indian army were reported to be in Cairo to make preliminary investigations for garrisoning Indian troops in Egypt to defend the Suez canal and participate in any near eastern action.

Although India was considered relatively safe from aerial bombardments, Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, and Karachi—the British army's major military ports for India—could be attacked by enemy warships.

A large royal air force camp has been established on the shores of Lake Habbaniya, in Iraq, for a reconnaissance flights over that section of the near east and especially along the oil pipe line across Iraq desert.

Warships Keep Up Steam.

From the air, British naval vessels in the harbor of Alexandria, Egypt, appeared to be keeping up steam.

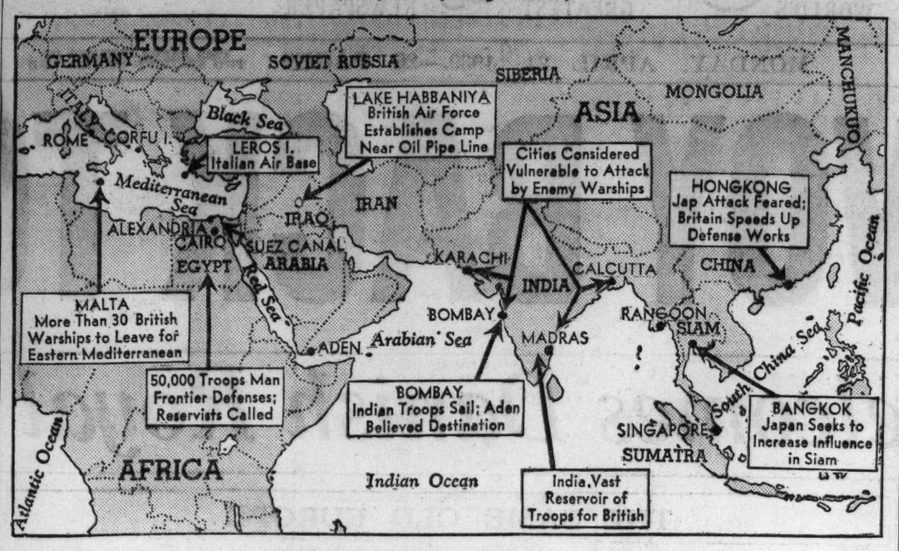
The possibility of an attack on that harbor—within bombing distance of the Italian base on the island of Leros—and on the Suez canal was discussed openly in Alexandria.

Mechanized warning sirens have been installed and the populace has been told to prepare for practice anti-air raid "blackouts" on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Egyptian press gave prominence to a statement by Premier Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha, quoting him as declaring there was nothing in the British-Egyptian treaty to prevent British troops, in present circumstances, from being increased beyond limits stipulated for normal times.

Preparedness the Watchword on British Lifeline

(Story in adjoining column.)



At many points along its empire lifeline through the Mediterranean and Red seas to the far east Britain is preparing defenses against any stroke at her possessions. Fleet movements to the eastern Mediterranean and reinforcement of troops in Egypt were reported yesterday. Captions on map point to vital spots in Britain's realm and protective measures that are under way.

GERMAN COLONISTS IN CHILE ACCUSED OF BOYCOTTING SCHOOLS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 23.—Members of a German farming colony which was established ten years ago twenty miles from the capital in the rich agricultural district of Peñaflor have refused to send a single pupil to Chilean schools. They have scoffed at the Chilean flag, have insulted members of the Chilean government, and expressed the intention to work here completely independent of Chileans until the time when they can return to Germany.

These charges were made in today's press by Luis Galdames, director general of Chile's primary education, in reply to criticism of the closing down by the government of foreign educational establishments.

Galdames said that official investigation has revealed that in spite of important contributions by the Chilean government in land concessions, machinery, and facilities of every kind the Germans have refused systematically to mix with the Chileans, help others in any way, or decide to remain in the country. German boys and girls brought up in the country, when questioned, could not speak Spanish and knew nothing about Chilean history, geography, or local conditions.

France Uncovers Spy Ring Along the Border of Italy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 23.—A spy ring engaged in obtaining mobilization plans of the French army along the Alpine frontier was broken up today when a French soldier named Detras was arrested as he attempted to flee into Italy. The soldier served as secretary to the colonel of an engineers' regiment. Documents dealing with national defense were understood to have been found on him.

VICTORS IN WARS OFTEN DEFEATED, EXPERT ASSERTS

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Dr. James T. Shotwell, director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, said in his annual report today that military victory may bring ultimate consequences which are worse than defeat for the nations which put their trust in military might.

Dr. J. T. Shotwell.

"The lesson that war has ultimate consequences of an entirely different character from its direct results," he said, "was not accepted by nations which like Germany and Japan had long standing military traditions, and it was flouted by Mussolini, who with a shortsightedness typical of all tyrants, judges achievement in terms of the immediate event.

"Napoleon III., the ablest of the 19th century Fascists, was the outstanding success of Europe for some 18 years; but the splendor of his régime had then to be paid for—not only by the defeat at Sedan but by economic difficulties which ensued."

GERMANS STRIVE TO WRECK ALLIES' POLITICAL FENCES

Predict "Ring of Steel" Will Be Smashed.

BERLIN, April 23. — (AP) — While gangs of workmen with acetylene torches removed iron fences from front yards to melt into cannon Nazi diplomacy worked overtime today to break down political fences Germany contends Great Britain and France have begun to build around her.

Nazis already were announcing signs of victory for Germany's diplomatic efforts to prevent what they consider to be a British-French threat of encirclement.

The high point of German efforts was expected Friday when Reichsfuehrer Hitler addresses the reichstag in answer to what one German editor called President Roosevelt's "humbug" invitation to the Fuehrer to pledge himself not to attack thirty-one specified nations for ten years or twenty-five years.

Fortified with Denials.

Little if any doubt was left that Hitler would answer in the negative. He will speak well fortified with denials, from at least some of the thirty-one nations, that they consider themselves menaced by Germany and with the knowledge of opinion expressed here that Britain now is backing down.

Chief among expected visitors to Berlin is Alexander Cincar-Markovich, Jugo-Slav foreign minister, who today reaffirmed amity between Belgrade and Rome after two day talks with Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy at Venice.

The ground work laid there for bringing Jugo-Slavia more closely, if not completely, into the Rome-Berlin axis was expected to be pursued here.

Believe Britain Backs Up.

Rudolf Kirchner, editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung, reported a feeling in high Nazi quarters that Britain already was "doubting the wisdom of her new policy and her ability to carry it through."

The sudden return to Berlin of Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson of Britain was held to strengthen this view. Henderson was called to London to report after the dissolution of Czecho-Slovakia six weeks ago.

Kirchner warned that "the period of revision is not yet over—'so oder so' [a phrase used by Hitler meaning one way or another] it will go on."

"The method of negotiation," he added, "is not known to either Berlin or Rome—only none need to expect that we are going to negotiate with persons who have nothing to do with the case—even when those persons are Americans."

This was a reference to President Roosevelt's peace appeal which Kirchner called "humbug."

Germans Ignore Poles.

Poland, key country in the British-French alignment, was being ignored by official Germany.

One well-informed source said that Nazi tactics with respect to Poland were to let that country alone in the belief that after a time she would be forced to join axis politics and negotiate the return of once German Danzig to Germany.

But the price Germany now asks from Poland was said to have been raised. Nazis were reported to want more than the Free City and a strip through the Polish corridor to East Prussia.

This was taken to mean that when, as Nazis believe, Poland comes to Germany with hat in hand, demands will be made for larger slices of the corridor and, possibly, for sections of industrial Silesia.

The cost of keeping her army mobilized is counted on by Nazis to bring Poland to her knees. Informed Germans said the Poles could not stand the expense.

"In another four weeks Herr Beck [Polish foreign minister] will be ready to come back into the fold he bolted when the first suggestions for a settlement of Danzig and a highway through the corridor to East Prussia were made," they asserted.

Beck at that time went to London. The British-Polish mutual assistance accord and a general British-French stand against further German expansion then came into being.

JAPANESE BOMB FOOCHOW, PORT OF SOUTH CHINA

SHANGHAI, April 23.—(AP)—Japanese war planes in renewed bombings of Foochow, Fukien province port, which is 435 miles south of Shanghai, today blasted government buildings and residential areas. Casualties were reported to be few, however, because the greater part of the population had fled from the city.

Advices from Chefoo, northern Shantung province port, more than 500 miles air line north of Shanghai, said tension had increased there following the arrival of Japanese reinforcements and greater restrictions on the movements of civilians because of guerrilla onslaughts. Foreigners, who form a considerable colony in Chefoo, were described as being virtually prisoners in their homes.

Japanese pressure against the Catholic mission in Chefoo, which included closing of the cathedral and the arrest of numerous Chinese converts, ceased suddenly. Some of the prisoners were released, but a few, accused of anti-Japanese activities, were executed.

TEACHER ROBBED; BOY HELD.

Rockford, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—A boy, 14 years old, was under arrest today on a charge of stealing $10 from his teacher's purse last Friday. Police said the boy admitted the theft. They said he spent $5 for a bicycle and the remainder for candy, sodas, and shows.

TYRONE POWER AND ANNABELLA OF FILMS WED

Hollywood, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Tyrone Power, young film actor, and Ann Carpentier, known on the screen as Annabella, were married this morning at the bride's Bel-Air home.

With only members of Power's family and a few friends present, the ceremony was performed by Superior Judge William J. Palmer. Don Ameche, film and radio actor, was best man and Mrs. Charles Boyer [Pat Paterson] was matron of honor.

Power, previously unmarried, is one of the screen's leading romantic actors. Annabella, born Suzanne Georgette Charpentier, came to Hollywood after attaining stardom in European movies. She was divorced last year from her second husband, Jean Murat, French actor, and has a 5 yea old daughter by her first husband, who is dead. Power is 25 and Annabella is 26

Their wedding was the second in movie circles in as many days. Douglas Fairbanks Jr., film actor, was married yesterday to Mrs. Mary Lee Epling Hartford, young society divorcee.

PARLEYS IN ITALY TIE JUGO-SLAVIA TO FASCIST BLOC

Rome Wins Over One-Time Friend of France.

VENICE, Italy, April 23.—(AP)—The Rome-Berlin axis drove deeper today into territory once dominated by France as a result of a two day conference between the foreign ministers of Italy and Jugo-Slavia, Count Galeazzo Ciano and Alexander Cincar-Markovich.

Foreign Minister Cincar-Markovich.

A communique issued at the end of the talks today declared:

"It has been agreed to deepen the faithful collaboration existing between the two states and between Jugo-Slavia and Germany in the political as well as in the economic sphere" for "maintenance of peace" and improvement of Danubian stability.

Regarding relations with Hungary, the communique said:

"The two foreign ministers examined the situation resulting from the most recent manifestations and noted with satisfaction how these have opened the way to a useful understanding between the governments of Belgrade and Budapest."

Expect Signing of Pact.

Conference sources interpreted this as indicating the probable signing ultimately of a Jugo-Slav-Hungarian nonaggression and friendship pact.

In the ministers' examination of Italy's absorption of Albania, Jugo-Slavia's neighbor, the announcement said the talks "confirmed once more the particular cordiality of the relations existing between Italy and Jugo-Slavia, a cordiality which from the conclusion of the pact of Belgrade has assured peace in the Adriatic and respect for reciprocal interests."

[Italy and Jugo-Slavia on March 23, 1937, signed a five year nonaggression, economic and political pact.]

It was pointed out by persons close to the ministers that the conference here was only part of a vast and complicated lining up process by the Rome-Berlin axis and the bloc led by Great Britain and France.

Next Stops in Berlin.

Cincar-Markovich's visit here, to be followed by a trip to Berlin this week, and the European tour of Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu, who arrived in London today, all were regarded as parts of this process.

It was denied authoritatively that Ciano had proposed definitly Jugo-Slavia's adherence to the anti-comintern pact among Japan, Germany, Italy, Hungary, Manchukuo, and Spain.

The Italians missed no chance to stress the cordiality of their reception to the Jugo-Slav foreign minister.

Cincar-Markovich last night was the guest at a smart reception in Rezzonico palace.

SEN. CAPPER SUPPORTS BILL TO PERMIT ENTRY OF 20,000 REFUGEES

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.] today announced his support for a proposal to amend the immigration laws and permit entry of 20,000 refugee children from Germany.

Capper is a member of a three man senate immigration subcommittee holding hearings on the bill introduced by Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.]. Other members are Senators W. H. Smathers [D., N. J.] and W. H. King [D., Utah]. A similar measure has been presented in the house by Representative Edith N. Rogers [R., Mass.].

The Kansan's support for the measure was announced in a transcribed radio address prepared for broadcast by station WIBW of Topeka. He released a copy of the address here.

The senate subcommittee tomorrow will hear witnesses opposed to the proposal.

VANGUARD OF U. S. FLEET EXPECTED AT CANAL TODAY

(Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.)

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, April 23.—The first of 120 American warships ordered by President Roosevelt to speed to the Pacific ocean were expected to arrive here tomorrow for hurried passage through the Panama canal.

Both navy and canal officials were maintaining complete silence regarding details of the movement, but it was believed the last of the 120 vessel would be in the Pacific late Wednesday.

Every precaution was being taken to guard against possible sabotage of the canal locks and other vital points during the transit. Army guards at the locks have been increased, and only workers engaged in operating the mechanisms will be permitted to enter the areas.

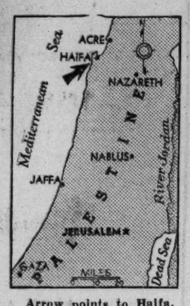
PALESTINE TURNS REFUGEES AWAY; ANGRY JEWS RIOT

Group Wandering Along Coast Is Seized.

HAIFA, Palestine, April 23.—(AP)—Police fired into the air today to disperse crowds watching the sailing of 270 refugees who were refused entry to the Holy Land because they had no passports.



Arrow points to Haifa, scene of riots.

Jews proclaimed a general strike here as a protest against deporting the refugees to an unrevealed destination in the steamer Assimi. Its captain had been released from serving a sentence of nine months in jail for trying to smuggle the refugees into the country.

Arrest 218 Others.

Another party of 218 Jewish immigrants, including fifty women and ten children, who allegedly had entered Palestine illegally, was found wandering along the coast yesterday between Jaffa and Gaza. All were arrested.

They said they had been put ashore at dawn from a Greek steamer which sailed immediately.

Sixteen Jewish youths were injured when police dispersed demonstrators marching to the district governor's office in protest against the order deporting the 270 refugees.

Ask Aid of U. S.

The Haifa Jewish community council cabled British Prime Minister Chamberlain and President Roosevelt asking them to use their influence to see that the refugees received "humanitarian" treatment.

FINDS DETECTIVE HUSBAND SHOT TO DEATH IN HOME

Policeman William C. Grady of the North Racine avenue station was fatally shot with his service revolver in his home at 3155 Fulton street late last night.

He was in the bathroom at the time preparing to go to work. He sent his wife to another room to get his night stick. A moment later she heard a shot and found Grady on the floor. A bullet had entered his head above the right ear.

Lieut. Walter McGloon of the Warren avenue station said he could not determine whether Grady shot himself accidentally. Grady was 45 years old and had been on the police force seventeen years. Most of the time he had been assigned as a detective squad leader at Warren avenue. He was transferred to Racine avenue two months ago. He is survived by his widow, three small sons—William Jr., Richard, and George—and a brother, Policeman Frank Grady of the detective bureau.

AVIATOR LANDS IN MOUNTAINS; RESCUES WOMAN

Challis, Idaho, April 23.—(AP)—A daring flight by Pilot Ralph Knapp of Pocatello was credited tonight with saving the life of Mrs. Joe Boyle, wife of a central Idaho dude ranch operator. Snowbound at the ranch in the rugged area, she suffered a severe hemorrhage following childbirth.

The infant died. Her husband telephoned a forest ranger, who in turn summoned Knapp from Pocatello, more than 180 miles away.

Knapp flew to the ranch with a physician, who decided the woman should be flown to Challis. After flying her from the ranch the pilot made two more trips, bringing out the husband and a 3 year old son and returning with a load of supplies.

Knapp landed near the ranch, in a sheltered valley at 4,600 feet with towering 10,000 foot mountain peaks on all sides.

FOUR IN STOLEN AUTO ARRESTED; CHASED 7 MILES

Four youths riding in a stolen automobile were seized by police early today after a seven mile chase which started on the north side and ended on the west side.

The four were sighted at Chicago avenue and Larrabee street by Policemen Horace McMahon and Harry Mondry of the stolen car detail. The chase started immediately. The cars at times raced 70 miles an hour. The police fired six shots before curbing the fugitives at 14th street and Damen avenue.

Driving the car was Herbert Shay, 20 years old, 1623 Mohawk street, who police said, admitted stealing the car from in front of 50 West Schiller street. It is owned by Mrs. Helen Howell Barnes, 25, of 2708 Lake View avenue, member of a prominent family. In the car with Shay were Mario Ricci, 16, 1733 Mohawk street; Harry Celli, 17, of 1825 Orchard street, and Anthony Glaviano, also 17, of 1735 Mohawk street, who had been invited for a ride by Shay.

Two Boy Bandits Hold Up Northwest Side Druggists

Two boy bandits committed robberies in two drug stores on the northwest side last night. The pair, both blond, first held up Abel Eisenberg in his pharmacy at 3435 Milwaukee avenue, and robbed him of $31. Shortly afterward they menaced William Liesch in his drug store at 4247 Armitage avenue and took $57 from him.

SENATE PASSAGE OF ST. CHARLES FENCE BILL SEEN

Emergency passage of the bill providing funds to erect a fence around the St. Charles School for Boys is expected in the state senate at Springfield this week. Since the measure was introduced last Thursday additional escapes from the school have brought this year's total to thirty-nine.

The fence would be eight feet high and would curve inward at the top. A weak charge of electricity may run through upper wires to discourage young criminals from climbing over. Powerful electric lights would keep the premises bright at night.

Because it would become effective upon passage and requires a $40,000 appropriation, the bill must get the approval of two-thirds of the senate and two-thirds of the house, where it will be considered later.

Citizens Demand Protection.

"Citizens residing near St. Charles are demanding some protection at once," said Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], chairman of the legislative committee now studying conditions at the unwalled institution. "Recognizing this, the senate permitted the bill to advance to second reading without reference to a standing committee."

The fence and lights are proposed as a stop-gap remedy. Other recommendations for corrective action will be considered by the investigating committee tomorrow.

Another blow against crime is expected to be struck tomorrow when the house committee on judicial practice takes up the Ward-Schnackenberg bill. This measure, passed by the senate last week, is designed to cut down parole evils by giving trial judges the power to set minimum as well as maximum sentences. The parole board would then function within these limits.

Representative Charles J. Jenkins [R., Chicago] is chairman of the judicial practice committee.

City Manager Bill to Come Up.

City manager enabling bills will be subject to amendment in the house tomorrow. Amendments to be offered will propose that the enacting clauses be stricken from the bills to kill them; that Chicago be exempted from the plan, and that city managers must be chosen from the municipalities they are to serve.

Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelly's floor leader in the upper chamber, said yesterday he will ask passage of bills to increase the state's relief appropriation from $3,000,000 to $4,500,000 a month in May and June. Chicago's share of the higher amount would enable the city to weather the relief funds crisis confronting needy persons, Ward said.

JUVENILE COURT MADE HOT SPOT BY SOB SISTERS

Veteran Judges Shy from Its Troubles.

a newcomer to the bench, succeeded her in 1933. He still is the judge.

The Circuit court has made no move to lighten the burden of the Juvenile court judge or to give him an assistant. He has had to paddle his own canoe and, as one official said, be responsible for the "social service worker racket at the same time he is trying to do his court duties."

In addition to his other duties Judge Bicek handles about 2,000 cases of boy and girl delinquencies. Many of these are charged with offenses amounting to felonies under the criminal law. These serious offenses alone furnish a man-sized job, said Maj. Harry Hill, chief of the probation department. Maj. Hill was an official at the St. Charles school before scandals and escapes became common there.

Into the Juvenile court—a place of "sorrow and heart throbs," according to its employés—go hundreds of parents and children every day. Their reasons are legion. Children are taken from parents and homes are broken up by the dozens almost every week on the say-so of social workers and probation officers.

Responsible for Thousands.

Besides the delinquency cases the court handles the cases of dependent children, cases where parents allegedly have not properly cared for their children, truants, and the feeble minded. The court has 2,155 children under its care in foster homes, 2,500 in orphanages and other institutions, and 107 under temporary care. In addition it administers and is responsible for the mothers' pension system providing for 1,694 families with 4,093 children.

Judge Bicek has as his assistants Maj. Hill; Ralph Riley, assistant to the judge; Miss Irene Kawin, chief deputy probation officer, and Mrs. Bess Heptig, in charge of the cases of dependent and delinquent girls. These department heads try to sift the cases and bring before the judge only those they believe require his personal attention. Even so, Judge Bicek has as many as 150 cases on his call daily.

The judge has under his control about 125 probation officers, most of them graduates of social service schools. The younger element of social workers, who operate under the designation of probation officers, are all college graduates. Maj. Hill and some of the older employés learned the social service work by the hard method of actual experience.

UPHOLDS FIRING OF RELIEF AGENTS FORCED BY REDS

California State Chief Declines to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bakersfield, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—H. Dewey Anderson, state relief administrator, today upheld the discharge of four relief supervisors in the Bakersfield region at the behest of the Workers' alliance and gave tacit approval to domination of the state relief administration by the alliance.

Widespread charges that the Workers' alliance, a C. I. O. affiliate, is dominated by the communist party were supported last week when Herbert Benjamin, general secretary, admitted to a committee of the national house of representatives which is investigating the WPA that he is a member of the communist party as are six other officials of the alliance. The federal government has recognized the alliance as the bargaining agency for 250,000 WPA workers.

The Bakersfield region is one of the biggest and most important relief areas in California because of the influx of migrants from the dustbowl area in states just east of California.

Protest Brings Dismissal.

Last month Catherine Lanigan, Elizabeth Walker, Michael Daly, and James Slattery, relief supervisors in the Bakersfield area, were discharged when they protested against conditions in the Bakersfield regional office. They charged executives of the alliance were allowed to violate state relief statutes.

James Reese, Bakersfield regional director, was transferred after he had protested against interference by the alliance with his office. A letter protesting against discharge of the supervisors was sent to Relief Administrator Anderson two weeks ago. At that time he was told Seldon Martin, relief administrator in Kern, and Rosamond Timmons, a field supervisor for the valley, had declared before a meeting of the relief staff that complaints from the Workers' alliance were indictments against an office and that the best evaluation of a staff's efficiency was the evaluation given by the alliance.

Today, Anderson assumed a "so what?" attitude when he wrote to the four former supervisors saying he had investigated their charges against Martin and Mrs. Timmons and found them to be true. Then he added that is was entirely within the discretion of Martin and Mrs. Timmons to make such statements, if they chose to do so, and he would take no action against them.

Try to Coerce Legislator.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 23.—[Special.]—Members of the communistic controled Workers' alliance made a second effort today to put pressure on a member of the California legislature to obtain passage of the pending budget and relief bills.

When the Rev. Dr. Jesse R. Kellems, Republican representative from the Bel-Air district, and his family were at the church where he is pastor, six members of the alliance visited his home and told a servant that 300 of their members would start a sitdown strike on his property unless he changed his vote to transfer a 73 million dollar relief item from the budget to consideration as a separate bill.

Dr. Kellems is a member of the Republican strategy committee in the legislature and a forceful member of an economy bloc.

On Friday a number of alliance members drove to the Whittier home of Mrs. Dora B. Kepple, mother of Representative Gerald Kepple and told her to notify her son to withdraw his opposition to the budget bill and let it be passed the way Democratic administration forces had planned, or they would bring 1,000 persons to camp on the Kepple grounds until the bill was passed.

A Day of Spring in Chicago

The water looked good to two boys at a Lake Michigan beach, near Navy pier yesterday, but one of them couldn't work up his nerve to run in. So the other gave him a yank, and there they were, enjoying their first swim of the year.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

The two boys romped in the water awhile and then started a game of tag, and one chased the other onto the beach. For them it was the first real day of spring.

Fair Spectators Get Real Thrill—Glass Show Fire

New York, April 23.—(AP)—A spectacular but brief fire caused slight damage tonight to the "city of glass" exhibit at the New York World's Fair. Eight fire companies responded to a double alarm. Three firemen were injured slightly. Flames leaping through the eighty foot perpendicular transparent flues of a glass furnace provided spectators with a thrilling sight. They were seen through the glass sides of the building, erected for exhibits of three glass manufacturing companies. The fire originated in the gas burning glass furnace.

Millions Enjoy Sun

The finest day of the year—and the first springlike one in April—cheered millions of Chicagoans yesterday. Parks were alive with outdoor fun seekers and strollers.

The forest preserves attracted thousands of visitors who saw sprouting buds and heard the songs of birds recently arrived from the southland. Some of the beaches, too, drew hardy bathers [in name only], who stayed away from the cold water and lolled in the sun.

All in all it was a perfect day, more like a mid-June day than a spring day. The temperature rose to a high of 76 degrees. Although loath to be a killjoy, the weatherman said last night that showers are probable this afternoon or tonight and tomorrow. And it will be somewhat cooler tomorrow.

SLATTERY QUITS STATE JOB; OFF FOR U. S. SENATE

James M. Slattery, United States senator-designate for the vacancy caused by the death of James Hamilton Lewis, left for Washington yesterday with Senator Scott W. Lucas. Before departing Slattery mailed to Gov. Horner his resignation as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

James M. Slattery.

It was reported that Charles K. Schwartz, state tax commissioner, can have Slattery's old job if he wants it. However, Schwartz was said to be uncertain about accepting. For one thing, the demands on his time would compel him to drop most of his law practice. Many business men are urging appointment of Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, who managed the unsuccessful mayoralty primary campaign of State's Attorney Courtney.

Gov. Horner may make the appointment tomorrow or Wednesday while the state senate is in session to confirm it. At the same time he is expected to appoint William Hart, commission secretary, as a commissioner, and Joseph E. Knight, assistant commissioner, as secretary.

A SILVER MILESTONE!

By CALEB

TODAY marks the quarter-century birthday of our Men's Grill . . . and as befits the gastronomic memories of its gala opening, the dishes on our current menu will be the identical favorites — clam chowder, individual chicken pie, corned beef hash with special dressing, individual lemon pie, and old-fashioned apple pie and chocolate ice cream — that graced our boards on April 24, 1914.

Despite the passing of years that have changed the world's face in passing, three of the employees who served Chicago's masculine appetites then are engaged in that pleasant task still. The same cigar counters are still in evidence, animated by the same pleasant face and voice that served customers across the glass twenty-five years ago. In fact, more than half the same customers who partook of their first Men's Grill lunch on that occasion are also among present patrons—and have their special booths, or tables, and waitresses.

Mental pictures of that original event dwell only too vividly in our minds. A huge basket of roses brightened the doorway; flowers were profuse on every table; wicker lamps illuminated the booths; a special willow-tree pattern of china, with the Marshall Field stamp, gladdened guest eyes; and special steak dinners were the coup d'etat of the day's cuisine. Menus were of rich brown leather, matching the brown leather chairs; and these same commodious chairs, delightful to the masculine heart, still impart comfort to every comer.

Here, during the interesting quarter-century already past, have rendezvoused not only the "Who's Who" of Midwest executive and commercial circles, but celebrities and tourists from practically every country in the world. At the Grill's original "Round Table" still foregather many of the professional coterie who established it in 1914, or their descendants; and among a host of faithful customers are organizations which reserve their tables weekly, as well as the familiar faces of numerous Field executives.

Present capacity of the Grill runs some twenty-five per cent or more above its original accommodations — holiday and "peak day" averaging a thousand or more diners. Those present at today's birthday luncheon will receive extra recognition, and a new Guest Register will be opened. In the spirit of Macbeth's words, we say to old patrons and newcomers alike: "Now good digestion wait on appetite, and health on both!"

3D TERM BOGY FAST ASSUMES AIR OF REALITY

Democrats Find Selves in State of Confusion.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt third term bogy has suddenly reappeared with such an aspect of reality that Democratic leaders have been thrown into a state of confusion and confess they don't exactly know where they are at.

Just when the conservative Democrats were hoping and the New Dealers were fearing that the President was going to be content to pass out of the picture and retire peaceably to Hyde Park he has arisen to remind his party that he is very much a possibility for renomination next year. Events of the last few days have combined to give this new twist to the situation in the Democratic party.

War Scare Implications.

First there were the political implications of the war scare. With Europe on the brink of war Mr. Roosevelt made known his belief that if war comes the United States cannot avoid becoming involved in it. Thus the United States, it was conceived, might be at war by the time of the 1940 presidential election.

That was a most significant development politically, for numerous Democratic leaders in the last few months have quoted the President as saying to them that he does not expect to stand for renomination unless the country at the time should be at war or threatened with war. His premise presumably was that the people would insist upon his remaining at the helm in such a crisis.

On top of such hints that war might be seized upon to rationalize a third term candidacy came the President's truculent letter to the Young Democratic clubs last Wednesday bidding the conservative Democrats to surrender to the New Deal or get out of the party and join the Republicans. His utterances cheered the New Dealers and made the conservatives hopping mad.

Expect New Purge Attempt.

Both factions interpreted the pronouncement as notice that Mr. Roosevelt will undertake a new purge in the presidential primaries next spring to rid his party of recalcitrants to his leadership and will fight for a Democratic convention that will nominate either him or a candidate of his choice. In any event it is apparent that the primaries and the convention will be a knockdown and drag out fight between the Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt factions.

It will be a desperate struggle. The President will have the advantage of his personal popularity and the army of federal job holders who are potent in the primaries and conventions that will select the delegates. On the other hand his conservative opponents will have the advantage of the popular prejudice against a third term and of the definite conservative swing of the country away from the New Deal.

Want United Party.

The conservatives will endeavor to compass the nomination of a candidate who, while conservative, would receive Mr. Roosevelt's stamp of approval. They want a united party and they want to win the election. While Vice President Garner is the ace Democratic conservative and is leading the field in the straw votes on Democratic presidential possibilities the conservatives do not expect him to be nominated just because he would be unacceptable to Mr. Roosevelt. They are looking for a compromise on some such candidate as Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who though a conservative would command the President's O. K.

On the other hand the President, unless content to wreck his party, will be unable to nominate Harry L. Hopkins, Henry A. Wallace, Frank Murphy, or any other dyed in the wool New Dealer because none of them would be acceptable to the conservatives. It would be easier for the President to get the nomination for himself than for any other New Dealer, and since the events of last week this is exactly what both factions of the party expect him to try to do.

Hull Not Acceptable.

This impression is strengthened by the implications of the letter to the Young Democrats that the President would not agree on a compromise middle of the road candidate, would not even accept Hull, because he is not a real New Dealer—only a "fellow traveler."

"It seems," said Senator Allen J. Ellender [D., La.], "that if the President can't select a liberal candidate to carry on his liberal policies, then he himself will again step forward. I don't know of any one who would be as effective a liberal candidate as he would."

Senator Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.] reiterated his belief that Mr. Roosevelt will seek a third term, adding that the Roosevelt letter "has made his position positive—he wants a liberal candidate for 1940."

Pepper Expresses Views.

Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] thought Mr. Roosevelt will not run again unless convinced no candidate sharing his political views can be nominated.

Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.] defied the President's new purge suggestion. He survived the President's attempted purge of conservatives last year.

"I am not going to leave the Democratic party and I don't know any conservatives who are going to leave it at the President's behest," he said. "Most of us have been in longer and more consistently than those who now advise us to get out. If the southern Democracy is to remain solid it is imperative that the complete right to differ be maintained. In my view differences are ironed out in the primaries and then the party is solidified. This must be the case next year if we are to be united and win."

Boy Hero Honored

Last February Jerome Itskovitz, armed with a toy pistol, captured a robber who tried to hold up a second hand store at 353 North Clark street. The store belonged to Jerome's father, Sam. Yesterday, in celebration of Jerome's eleventh birthday, Capt. John Howe of Commissioner Allman's office presented the boy with a police star designating him an honorary member of the Chicago police department. The presentation was made at Jerome's birthday party in his home above the store. Sixty children from the neighborhood shared the birthday cake baked by Mrs. Itskovitz. Jerome sang several songs for the guests. Murrel O'Connor, the robber whom Jerome captured, recently finished a ninety day sentence in the Bridewell.

ASKS CONGRESS STEP IN AND PUT NATION ON FEET

Leader Martin Tells New Deal's Broken Pledges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Assailing the Roosevelt administration for failure to keep its promise to remove the impediments to business improvement, Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the house, called on congress today to step into the breach and do the job. He proposed the following twelve point program for recovery:

Representative Joseph W. Martin.

1. Keep the United States out of war by avoiding involvement in European crises.
2. Move immediately to curb unnecessary, wasteful and reckless spending.
3. Repeal the repressive tax on undistributed corporate earnings, "which has proved so harassing and dangerous to business, large and small."
4. Revise the remainder of the federal tax structure to eliminate or modify provisions retarding business recovery.
5. Repeal the dangerous discretionary authority "which the President now has over the nation's monetary system."
6. Amend the national labor relations act by clarifying the mutual obligations of worker and employer and the duties of both toward the public "in order to end present paralyzing discord."
7. Define specifically the area of government competition with private enterprise so business may be able to create jobs with some certainty as to the future.
8. "Restore American markets to the American farmer and wage earner" and develop new markets for agricultural products.
9. Adopt immediate legislation to rehabilitate the railroads "to make secure the jobs of many hundreds of thousands of workers and the investment of savings banks and life insurance companies."
10. Create a special committee of congress to inquire into the effect of the reciprocal trade agreement policy on American industry and agriculture.
11. Clarify federal rules and regulations "so industry and business may know what to expect."
12. Reject all experimental legislation not clearly helpful in promoting recovery, or which would subject agriculture, labor or industry to compulsory decrees of a federal burocracy.

Recalls Des Moines Pledge.

"Two months now have passed since Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, in a speech at Des Moines, announced to the country that the New Deal was ready to take positive steps toward a business appeasement program to restore economic recovery," said Martin. "Assumed to be speaking for the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Hopkins' announcement aroused widespread enthusiasm and raised high hopes in all parts of the country and among adherents of all political faiths.

"Since that speech, however, the only specific action taken by the administration to encourage recovery was the recommendation of the secretary of the treasury for cancelation of the increased pay roll taxes.

Mail Full of Complaints.

"An increasing flood of mail to congress from all parts of the country complains of conditions. Factory and shop workers write me they are footsore and weary seeking employment. Farmers tell me their condition is desperate.

"The Roosevelt administration is torn by conflicting opinions of what should be done. It is unable to act because of indecision. Therefore congress must assume the lead in taking steps necessary to guide the country back to economic recovery and restore our millions of unemployed to jobs in private industry at decent wages."

DR. WILLIAM J. MAYO REPORTED IMPROVING AFTER AN OPERATION

Rochester, Minn., April 23.—(AP)—Twenty-four hours after he was operated on for a perforating gastric ulcer, Dr. William J. Mayo, 77 years old, noted physician and surgeon, was reported by Mayo clinic physicians to be in a satisfactory condition today.

Dr. Mayo, a clinic bulletin said, rested well during the night and his pulse, respiration and blood pressure are normal. Attending physicians admitted it will be several days before the trend of his condition can be foretold with any accuracy because of the serious nature of the operation.

A constant and close observer of the noted doctor's progress, who stood by in the operating room during the surgery, is his equally world-renowned brother, Dr. Charles H. Mayo.

G. O. P. EXPECTED TO RENAME 3 IN JUDGESHIP UPSET

New Convention Scheduled in 17th Circuit.

The Republican judicial convention of the 17th circuit will reconvene Saturday in the Winnebako county courthouse in Rockford. For the second time it is expected to nominate the three candidates for the June 5 election that it named on April 15.

This procedure was decided on yesterday at a conference in the McHenry county courthouse in Woodstock in which the three nominees participated. They are Judge Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan, Judge William L. Pierce of Belvidere, and Attorney Thomas E. Gill of Rockford.

Others who took part were the Republican chairmen of the four counties in the district—Edwin Loop, Boone county; John Mark, Lake county; Paul Rosenquist, Winnebago county, and C. Frank Daly, McHenry county.

Fail to Certify Names.

The second session was believed to be the only method to cure the failure of the chairman and secretary of the April 15 convention to certify the names of the three nominees to Secretary of State Hughes before the deadline at midnight last Friday night. The conferees agreed that the failure was due to inexperience and that there was no cause for censuring any one.

When the situation was discovered Saturday it was believed for a time that the only name printed on the ballot would be that of B. J. Knight of Rockford, the only Democratic nominee. Unless the problem were solved, it was said, the Republicans would have to undertake a write-in campaign.

Procedure Saves Situation.

The solution was found in an examination of the record of the convention and the statutes. The record showed that the convention did not adjourn sine die on April 15, a step which would have prevented further proceedings. Instead, the convention adopted a resolution providing that if any vacancies in nominations should occur the delegates would reconvene and fill them.

The lawyers held that this was within the powers of the convention under provisions of the election laws, which include the replacement of an inoperative petition—such as the one in this instance—as a part of the jurisdiction of the body which made the original nominations.

During the Woodstock conference efforts were made to talk to Secretary of State Hughes by telephone to corroborate newspaper interviews in which he was quoted as saying that the Republicans had the right to fill the vacancies which now appear on the list for his certification to the county clerks of the state. He was not reached and a committee may go to Springfield today to consult him.

That committee would consist of the four county chairmen and Attorney Stanton Hyer of Rockford and Michael J. Walsh of Harvard, who was a member of former Gov. Emmerson's cabinet.

Believed Identified

MISS RUTH STRICKLAND.

Help was promised last night to Miss Barbara Williams—who is believed to be Miss Ruth Strickland, 22 years old, of Harvey. She was sentenced to ten years in prison in Paducah, Ky., Saturday for a crime which she committed in desperation over a love affair.

The girl has been identified as Miss Strickland by Mrs. Hazel Strickland Jones of 15642 Vine avenue, Harvey, a sister of Miss Strickland. Identification was made through a photograph and other clews.

Mrs. Jones said she will go to Paducah to ask authorities to void the prison sentence or to parole the girl. Her brother, Clyde Strickland of Faribault, Minn., also may go to Paducah. It was reported last night that Paducah authorities were not unwilling to help.

The girl, whose hair had been bleached to blonde from its natural coloring of brown, attempted to hold up two women with a toy pistol Tuesday in Paducah, a few hours after her arrival from Chicago. She said she wanted to go to prison because her sweetheart was in love with another girl.

JUROR'S ILLNESS NULLIFIES TRIAL 3 MONTHS LONG

Former Newark Officials Defendants in Case.

Newark, N. J., April 23.—(AP)—Illness of a juror, who was stricken with acute appendicitis while the jury deliberated, froced a mistrial today in the three month old Newark land purchase conspiracy trial in which Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein was one of nine defendants.

M. C. Ellenstein.

Unwillingness of some of the defendants to accept an eleven man verdict resulted in dismissal of the jurors shortly before noon today nearly forty-eight hours after the case was submitted to them.

As the jurors filed back to their room, after the longest trial in the state's history, Foreman George Barton, 62 years old, a Millburn painter, became faint. He was treated by a physician who said he was suffering from hysteria.

Thirteen Go on Trial.

The trial began Jan. 18 after an investigation of city affairs which resulted in indictment of twenty-six persons on charges of conspiring to defraud the city in its acquisition of meadowlands in the Newark airport-meadowlands in the Newark airport area for development purposes. Of the thirteen defendants who went on trial, four won directed verdicts of acquittal.

The city commission bought two tracts totaling 4.4 acres in 1935 for $78,177 and in 1936 adopted, but later rescinded, a resolution to purchase a 4.8 acre tract for $190,535. The prosecution charged the descinding followed disclosure by the press of a previous conditional offer to sell the tract to the city for $3,200 an acre.

Mayor Ellenstein Absent.

All of the defendants except Mayor Ellenstein, 52 years old, head of New Jersey's largest city, were in court today when Judge Dallas Flannagan announced that an operation for appendicitis had been performed during the night on Juror Michael F. De Rosa, a construction clerk.

Defendants besides Ellenstein were City Commissioner Pearce R. Franklin, former Commissioners Reginald C. S. Parnell and Anthony F. Minisi, former Corporation Counsel Frank A. Boettner, former Assistant Corporation Counsel Jules E. Tepper, David Raschkover, a real estate appraiser, and Michael Silver and Morris H. Klein, lawyers.

CITY TO RESUME WIEBOLDT STRIKE PARLEY TODAY

Negotiations to end the teamsters' union strike against the Wieboldt Stores, Inc., will be resumed at noon today. Ald. William A. Rowan (10th), chairman of the city council labor committee, will receive answers from store and union officials to the question when an election of store drivers should be held.

A truce was agreed to Saturday when Elmer F. Wieboldt, president of the company, and Leslie Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council, conferred with the alderman. The truce will expire at noone unless negotiations are continued or the strike ended. Under the truce, union pickets have been withdrawn from the stores and the company is hauling no supplies.

The Better Government association yesterday denounced terrorism in labor controversies. Union labor was warned that it should purge itself of racketeers if it does not wish its house to tumble down.

INJURIES FATAL TO WOMAN, 55, STRUCK BY AUTO

Mrs. Jennie Miles, 55 years old, 2723 Dayton street, died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile at Diversey parkway and Dayton street. The driver was Thomas Boundas, 5106 Sheridan road.

Peter Pauletto, 6 years old, 718 South Aberdeen street, died last night in the Mother Cabrini hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was struck by an automobile almost in front of his home. The driver was John Pope, 21, of 616 South May street.

Two men were injured seriously yesterday when their automobile jumped a curb and smashed against a cement light post in Field boulevard at South Water street. The injured are Guy Densiba, 25 years old, and Floyd Leem, 32, both of 857 Eastwood avenue. They were taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 285 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 222 were killed in Chicago, where 5,808 were injured in the same period.

Anne Lindbergh's Sister Gives Birth to Daughter

New York, April 23.—(AP)—A daughter was born in Doctors hospital today to Mrs. Constance Morrow Morgan, a daughter of the late Dwight Morrow and a sister of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The father is Aubrey Niel Morgan of Wales, who married Constance Morrow after his first wife, her sister Elizabeth, died in 1934. The Morgans have been staying at the Morrow estate in Englewood, N. J., where Mrs. Lindbergh presumably will visit on her return from Europe this week to rejoin her husband. Col. Lindbergh, a reserve officer, has been called to duty with the air corps.

ILLINOIS GROUP TO STUDY MILK CONTROL IN EAST

Arrive in New York Today; Will Return in Week.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 23.—[Special.]—A party delegated by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle of Illinois will arrive here tomorrow to study the ills of the milk industry. While the legislature at Springfield is debating on what might be expected from enactment of a price control law, this group will be learning what has resulted from the operation of such a law in eastern cities.

Heading the party is Dr. H. A. Ruehe of the University of Illinois, appointed to this task at the suggestion of Gov. Henry Horner in recognition of the professor's knowledge of agricultural economics. He is accompanied by representatives of special interests in the milk problem.

Envoys of Special Blocs.

For the Chicago Milk Producers' council, an organization of farmers who supply the metropolis with this liquid food, is Arthur Hartman of Hampshire, Ill. He is concerned with the shrinking prices paid farmers as the milk output grossly exceeds demands. For the dealers is Arthur R. Buehring of De Kalb, president of the Illinois Dairy Products association.

For organized labor is Frank J. Gillespie, secretary and treasurer of the Dairy Employés union and a representative on this trip of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union. The wagon drivers have been losing jobs as housewives have been canceling orders in protest against 12 cents a quart for doorstep delivery.

Housewives Represented.

Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, president of the Chicago Housewives' league, will represent the consumers on the eastern trip. At a conference in Springfield last Monday she protested that a state milk control board, such as proposed in pending legislation, resulted in higher retail prices where the law has been tried in eastern cities.

The Illinois delegation will make inquiries here tomorrow on New York efforts to control milk prices. On Tuesday the delegation will interview sources of information in Boston. Inquiries will be made later in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, under a tentative itinerary, before returning in a week to report to Stelle's milk conference.

Beat Bandit

Morris (left) and Joseph Hacker looking at the gun they took away from a bandit who tried to rob them. They beat him and shot him with his own gun.

A bandit who attempted to rob two brothers yesterday in front of 916 Milwaukee avenue identified himself later in the Bridewell hospital as Frank Stopka, 29 years old. His intended victims overpowered him, beat him on the head, and then shot and slightly wounded him with his own revolver. The brothers are Morris and Joseph Hacker of 1109 North Sacramento avenue. Stopka said he lived at 929 Milwaukee avenue. He said it was the first time he had attempted to rob any one. He will be viewed by other holdup victims.

4 BANDITS SEIZE SLOT MACHINES POLICE PASS UP

Four bandits yesterday found four slot machines which the county highway police overlooked in their campaign to rid the county of the gambling devices. The bandits promptly carted the machines away. The scene of the robbery was the Twin Orchard Golf club at Wolf road and Bryn Mawr avenue, near Bensenville.

While a dozen golfers were lounging in the clubrooms the bandits approached Orland R. Smeltekops, the manager, and told him they were moving out the machines. When he started to protest they displayed pistols.

The robbers drove away with the machines in two automobiles. It was estimated that the cash loot would total about $100.

NEW HORMONE'S REVITALIZING AID HAILED BY DOCTOR

Effect on Middle Aged Men Told in Magazine.

A new male sex hormone, chemically synthesized, is enabling middle aged men to retain their physical and mental vigor more effectively than any other hormone now available. The workings of this substance, known as testosterone, are described in a clinical report by Dr. August A. Werner in the latest issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Werner, assistant professor of internal medicine at St. Louis university, has been prescribing the hormone for patients since its discovery three years ago by Dr. L. L. Ruzicka of Zurich, Switzerland.

In at least one case, he reported, a patient lost persistent depressed feelings after only four weeks of treatment. After three months all other symptoms common to what Dr. Werner calls "man's climacteric period" also disappeared.

Depression One Symptom.

The climacteric period, according to Dr. Werner, is common to men over 50 who have suffered a decline in the function of sex glands.

"The symptoms of this period," the article said, "are intense nervousness, definite emotional instability, sudden changes in mood, decreased memory and ability for mental concentration, decreased interest in normal activities, desire to be left alone, and depressed and crying spells."

These climacteric disturbances, according to Dr. Werner, may become so severe in men that they become despondent. Thus many men may commit suicide without any easily apparent reasons, the article said.

Affords Test of Theories.

Experiments have shown, Dr. Werner said, that the new hormone is from twenty-five to fifty times more potent than the other male hormones, such as androsterone. The hormone usually is injected intramuscularly. With the new hormone scientists hope to test completely various theories of rejuvenation which created their first furore with the grafting of monkey and goat glands in humans.

SHOT AND KILLED IN QUARREL.

Ballard Hobbs, 23 years old, colored, 3935 Michigan avenue, was shot and killed yesterday in a quarrel with an unidentified colored man who escaped.

ARREST OF THREE DELAYS OPENING OF NEW STORE

Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan of the commissioner's office seized three men last night in connection with the theft of $1,300 worth of cameras and camera supplies.

The loot was taken from the Hornstein Photo Sales company, 29 East Madison street, where two of those arrested were employed. They are Sol Gold, 21 years old, 3906 18th street, a shipping clerk, and Harvey Pearlman, also 21, of 3114 Ainslie street, a clerk. The third man seized is David Machat, 29, of 4825 North Sawyer avenue, owner of a parcel delivery service.

Sergt. O'Sullivan said Gold passed stolen cameras and supplies to Machat and that Machat and Pearlman made arrangements to open a camera store soon at 3901 North avenue. The opening was delayed after O'Sullivan recovered $500 worth of the loot in the store. Machat and Pearlman denied knowing that the merchandise was stolen.

WOMAN GOES ON TRIAL TODAY AS STUDENT KILLER

Urbana, Ill., April 23.—[Special.]—One hundred prospective jurors and twenty witnesses have been summoned to appear in Circuit court here tomorrow morning when Mrs. Margaret Strothers goes to trial on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Strothers, 52 years old, is operator of the Pullman hotel, a Negro night resort in Champaign. She shot William Spurrier, 20 years old, of Toledo, O., a University of Illinois sophomore, on the morning of Feb. 16. He died twenty-four hours later.

Mrs. Strothers said she shot Spurrier after one of a group of University of Illinois students threw a bottle through a window of her house.

The shooting of Spurrier touched off an investigation which revealed vice and gambling conditions in Champaign and resulted in the indictment of thirty persons.

POLITICAL BANKING.

When Mr. Garner heard of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to transfer the RFC to the department of commerce the Vice President's eyebrows stood out "like twin haystacks against a sunset," according to Mr. Henning. Mr. Garner's friend and fellow Texan, Jesse Jones, is chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the world's biggest bank. Mr. Jones did not fancy the idea of taking orders from Secretary of Commerce Hopkins and Mr. Garner fancied it even less. Mr. Roosevelt seems to have suspected that something like this might happen and had offered Mr. Jones the position of secretary of the navy, but Mr. Jones would have none of it.

Mr. Roosevelt has the power, under the reorganization law recently enacted, to transfer the RFC, but congress retains the right to veto the move. Unless Mr. Garner's influence in congress has been greatly exaggerated, the RFC is destined to remain independent.

Under other auspices the transfer of the RFC and the other lending agencies to one of the cabinet departments would be commended as a step in the direction of liquidation. Government departments are organized to conduct ordinary government business. An investment banking business cannot be operated under the restrictions imposed by law upon the executive departments. As a functionary in the department of commerce the chairman of the RFC would find himself snarled in red tape. He would find it impossible to move promptly. The independence of judgment and action essential to the operation of any corporate enterprise would be taken from him. About all a conscientious man could do in such circumstances would be to liquidate loans.

Ordinarily, then, the proposed transfer of the lending agencies would be desirable as a prelude to the termination of some very dangerous experiments. The greatest of the present dangers is the probability that the government's immense lending power will be used for political purposes, with the money going to those who are politically right, the ward heelers and their friends, regardless of the probability of repayment.

That risk exists no matter how the government's lending organization is set up, but the danger is heightened when the handling of the funds is intrusted to an official directly interested in vote-getting. Mr. Hopkins is such an official, not only because he is a cabinet officer but more especially because he is Harry Hopkins. He used the WPA when he was the boss of it for political purposes. His frank admission that he had done so, made at the time his appointment as secretary of commerce was under consideration in the senate, was scarcely needed to prove the case. It was necessary only to note the rise in WPA pay rolls before elections and the decline after elections.

This man, who could take money appropriated for the relief of human misery and spend it for votes, is the last man in the United States to be given control of the government's immense lending power. He has proved himself unfit for such a position of trust.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN AND RUSSIA.

Russia's response to the British invitation to join the anti-aggression circle is said to demand a tight alliance which would include aid if the soviet union went to war with Japan in the far east. Mr. Chamberlain obviously regards any association with Stalin as a most dismal necessity if it becomes a necessity. He might also regard it as a most uncertain one. To the ordinary communist virtues of brutality, falsification, and double dealing the Georgian dictator has added his own peculiar contributions of treachery, mass murder, and judicial assassination.

Mr. Chamberlain has never pretended to find in the communist principles and practices the warm humanity which appears to Mr. Roosevelt's vision. The British prime minister had one personal experience with Stalin which might seem trivial in the light of recent Kremlin history, but which must have been extremely disagreeable to 10 Downing street. Mr. Chamberlain had to assert in parliament that the British government had not, as one of Stalin's victims of judicial assassination had been forced to confess in court, entrapped the Russian ambassador to London with a forged letter incriminating him and thus forced him to become a British spy. That was too much. An ambassador is a personal representative to a sovereign and peculiarly the guest of his good faith and honor.

To leave Russia out would leave the circle incomplete; to take it in admits all the dangers of unlimited scoundrelism. Moreover, Russia will bargain for every advantage possible. If Stalin has retained any vestiges of Marxism, Mr. Chamberlain is to him only another capitalist bandit engaged in more imperialistic exploitation. That is what Lenin would have called him. Still this is Russia's fight as much as any one's and it is supposed to have the military force to fight it. Our candidate for America's place in the war is Russia, although it must be appreciated that it would be much pleasanter for the circle to take in the United States. It never asks for anything, not even a transfer of nearby islands on the old debt.

THE AMERICAN PURPLE.

Dr. Henry Earle Riggs, discussing the economic weakness of the Grand Coulee project on the Columbia river, said that it was fantastic in the extreme and compared it with the great pyramid, reminding his listeners of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Engineering Society of Detroit, meeting in Detroit, that it would be three times the bulk of that other monument to imperial vainglory. The comparison was not lightly made.

Grand Coulee is the greatest of its kind, the greatest hunk of concrete, the greatest folly, and the greatest edifice ever erected to the vanity of man. The dam will be 550 feet high. It will contain more than ten million cubic yards of concrete. It will make a lake 150 miles long. It will cost at least 500 million dollars, much more than the Panama canal, and as much as all the imperial works in the Tennessee valley. It will create power for which there is no market and irrigate land at a cost of $328 an acre.

Grand Coulee is a Roman emperor's tribute to himself. It satisfies the edificial mania such as has seized all men who have come into great power arbitrarily exercised, and who have been able to lay their hands upon the revenues of a great nation.

Occasionally in the psychology of the governing class there is found a torpidity, a personality which is content to be, to exist as a monument in and of itself—an extravagant egotism but a sluggish one. If there is also amiability history may preserve the legend of the good king. He did nothing, but he did not crowd his subjects much. He was sufficient to himself without being a hero in wars and without spreading his monuments over the land. More frequently this is not sufficient.

The king of Italy might be content to reign. Mussolini must rule and re-create the Roman empire. Hitler must outdo the kaiser. He has no dynasty and must rise above origins which in themselves give him no satisfaction. The man who seizes the purple is restless for achievement.

Huey Long's imperial works still fill Louisiana with an uneasy pride. Although dead he is the emperor still, buried as a Roman Augustus, in a park under his astonishing statehouse, surrounded by the funeral evergreens of the Appian way. Fresh cut flowers are in the vases of his tomb and at night a light from the tower of the capitol shines on the center vase. His great bridge is another memento of the bayou Probus who said it was permitted to the senate to receive his decrees as laws. Democracy can produce its emperors.

Mr. Roosevelt's debts, his revenues, his public works, his philosophy of government, his engagements in world affairs, his search for achievement and monumentation are all on the imperial scale. When a private individual tries to fly with such large wings he goes broke. When a ruler tries it other people go broke first.

Ruins represent, for later generations, the ambitions of men who have ruled through the procurator and based their achievements on the exactions of the tax collector.

A PROVOCATION AVOIDED.

Both the senate and the house have rejected Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to spend 5 million dollars improving the harbor at Guam for the use of our navy. Here is one more illustration of the worth of representative institutions. Guam is within bombing distance of Tokio. The development of the island as a base for our seaplanes could have been regarded in Japan only as a serious threat and a proof of American ill will. Mr. Roosevelt's scheme would have resulted in Japanese measures directed against our safety. And, in turn, we should have been under pressure to spend immense sums in building up a navy and naval auxiliaries strong enough to protect Guam from the Japanese on their side of the ocean.

Thanks to congress, that grievous mistake was not made. Under the New Deal the customary relations of congress and the President have been reversed. We used to think of the President as a check on the extravagance and the irresponsibility and exuberance of congress. We now look to congress to keep the President from waste and folly.

Congress is awakening, though slowly, to its responsibility. The President of his own motion started the Florida canal and the 'Quoddy scheme; congress stopped them. Congress has been less successful in checking most of the President's other extravagances, but is giving indications [as in the refusal to increase the debt limit] that its patience is nearly exhausted. Now congress has had the good sense to abandon the Guam provocation to an Asiatic war and the abler members are determined to keep Mr. Roosevelt from committing us to a European war also.

Editorial of the Day

HITLER AND NAPOLEON.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

Lord Beaverbrook draws a trenchant contrast between Hitler and Napoleon. Hitler, he remarks, is a politician, an orator, a demagogue whose power rests upon the arts of the vote getter. Napoleon was a bum orator [he tried that art just once, failed, and distrusted politicians forever after] who grounded his conquests upon capable generalship and the arts of the sword.

This may be true, and yet the parallel is as striking as the contrast. Unlike personally, Hitler and Napoleon worked themselves into remarkably similar situations. Both came to power as national heroes committed to the achievement of domestic revolution, both departed from that goal to embark on a career of conquest, and both ultimately locked horns with "perfidious Albion."

Napoleon scorned England as a nation of shopkeepers, and Hitler has held the British in equal contempt. But Napoleon with all his military genius was unable to become master of a continent. Can Hitler, who never amounted to more than a dispatch runner in war, do more?

We shall see what we shall see. Times have changed. Perhaps military skill, after all, has become less important than it was in Napoleon's day, while the skill which Hitler possesses has become more so. Perhaps it is not the battles and military invasions which count so much as the threat of war and the artful use of warlike gestures, combined with controlled press, controlled opinion, controlled thought. Even so, there is a limit beyond which such methods cannot be applied. The limit is defined by the first rank powers; it is a line, marked out with the tip of an umbrella, beyond which these first rank powers decree Hitler shall not go.

When that line is definitely fixed, then the struggle must resolve into a military one, or be given up. That is the choice now, apparently, being evolved for Hitler.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S HOME.

An advertisment in Punch informs us that the forward looking Englishman can equip his garden with an underground air raid shelter, installed with all conveniences and gadgets, accommodating seven persons, for an approximate cost of 90 pounds. Splinterproof, blastproof, gasproof, and water tight. This is what that alleged blessing called man's conquest of the air has done for the world!

The English magazines fill us with grinning amazement by full page advertisments in color of a racetrack bookmaker's contribution to the welfare of the realm. Picture: A gallant old sportsman of the P. G. Wodehouse type, talking at a bar to a young pukka sahib, keen as mustard, and saying that there is one thing he has never regretted in life—"betting with Duggie." The big type slogan is this coy remark, supposed to come from the perfect bookie:

"Duggie is waiting for you to open a credit account."

If the Indiana society had planted a sycamore tree in Chicago every time it held a ceremonial dinner, resident Hoosiers would not pine for the banks of the Wabash. But this handsome tree, which has some of the startling characteristics of a leper, is never seen in the avenues and parks of our Urbs in Horto. Fancy our surprise, therefore, when we discovered a sycamore in a location about a mile due west of Goose Island! We are keeping the address dark; this will be our own private and secret sycamore tree—until Roberts Mann of the forest preserve sends word that he has found them in dozens.

The Kindly Heart of Senator Lewis.

Many years ago, while we were in a conference about a lawsuit, a reporter was announced asking for an interview concerning a Chicago Democrat who, at a party meeting in New York City, had worn a red vest. Senator Lewis greeted him at the door and said, "My dear fellow, I would love to do anything for THE TRIBUNE, but won't you please excuse me this time? I am absorbed in an important conference, but give my love to THE TRIBUNE."

The reporter left. The senator looked at me a moment and said, "Carl, lots of folks think I am just an acting fool. Just let them think so—just let them think so."

Later in the conference I told Senator Lewis of a woman who had come to my office distracted because her only son, not 16 years old, had run away, enlisted in the United States army, became homesick, deserted, and was under a two year sentence for desertion. The woman had no money and no influential friends. Senator Lewis said, "Get up the facts in affidavit form. I will do what I can." In two weeks the boy was home, paroled to his mother.

I found, in thirty years of friendship, the solid substance of a man of a kind and understanding heart, whose philosophy of life might well be characterized in the phrase, "Noblesse oblige." Senator Lewis had the rare power to make men, whether they were laborers, waiters, or men of affairs, feel the essential dignity and importance of being human beings. Carl V. Wisner.

MONA LISA GROWS OLD.

Time's devastating hand has stroked her hair
And chiseled wrinkles on her dainty face
And shoved her with a careless gesture where
He herds the whole of this great human race.
She makes no protest. While her wrinkles curl
Into a knowing, reminiscent smile,
She sees the younger generations whirl
The same old way along the same old mile.
She knows a growing multitude of things—
How much we throw away that we should keep,
About the little god with gossamer wings,
How futile are the bitter tears we weep.
She knows repentance is not quite complete
So long as memories of sin are sweet.

THE FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST.

NOW is a good time to look over the family medicine chest and replenish the articles that have been used up during the winter. There is an old saying that "a stitch in time saves nine." Boys and girls playing out of doors will encounter cuts and scratches more frequently and the only safe procedure lies in protecting skin injuries from contamination with dirt. Many a case of blood poisoning will thus be avoided and serious illness warded off.

The only difference between a scratch or a pin prick and a severe infection [septicemia] is time. If the wound is attended to promptly—scrubbed with soap and water and then covered with a bit of clean gauze held in place with adhesive tape—the chances are that all will be well. Incidentally, an entire finger should not be encircled with a bandage, as the circulation will be constricted. If we wait until the part begins to swell and throb and reddish streaks run up the arm we may know that a blood stream invasion is on the way. Despite all that can be done at this stage a finger, a hand, or even life may be lost.

"First aid" implies good care as a preliminary measure. It may not embrace everything that must be done but it means the application of a type of dressing which will prevent bacterial growth and further damage to the tissues until a physician can be consulted. Most injuries about the house can be handled with soap and water, sterile gauze, and adhesive. No antiseptic need be employed. Soap and water will carry away more germs than any chemical can kill. When it comes to a shop, factory, or mill, that is a different story. There solvents for grease may be called for as well as tourniquets to stop hemorrhage, and splints for the temporary fixation of fractures.

Strangely enough, however, the great majority of accidents occur in the home. We slip on floors, stumble over rugs, fall downstairs, mistake doorways, and sometimes—inexcusable as it may seem—take the wrong medicine, which emphasizes the fact that every bottle must be clearly and legibly labeled. Those that are poisonous must be kept well above the reach of the little ones.

Another handy package is mustard. This is a quick emetic, also a useful skin irritant in convulsions. A teaspoonful in a glass of warm water will make almost any one regret everything in the stomach. A child who exhibits a high temperature, nervous twitchings, and a blanched appearance will be aided greatly by a warm bath into which half a teacupful of ground mustard has been placed. This will restore the surface circulation and relieve internal congestion.

For burns, cod liver oil or tannic acid may be used. Of the former, the crude oil is preferable. A 5 per cent solution of the latter may be made by adding approximately 4 tablespoonfuls to a pint of water. Strips of cheesecloth soaked in either material may be applied directly to the affected areas. If an atomizer is available the tannic solution may be sprayed on periodically until a thick crust has formed.

Fainting always seems more serious than it actually is. It is brought on by lack of blood to the brain and is often a nervous reaction. More harm is likely to ensue if the victim falls and hurts himself in so doing. If one feels faint, senses an oncoming collapse, bending forward in the chair and compressing the abdomen against the thighs will usually terminate the attack. With a known tendency, the inhalation of the pungent fumes of carbonated ammonia will induce enough nasal congestion to avert the episode.

Other items in the cabinet may include a laxative for occasional use such as compound licorice powder, which is not irritating in the required dosage. Bicarbonate of soda [baking soda], either in tablet or powdered form, and some salicylate may be included. For a quick stimulant there is no better preparation than aromatic spirits of ammonia and a teaspoonful in a half glass of warm water will prove serviceable on many occasions.

PAINFUL HEEL.

P. S. writes: What causes a painful heel?

REPLY.

In young persons, this condition may follow a fall, in which the weight was brought to bear upon the heel, causing an inflammation of the growing portion of the bone. In adults, spurs [arthritis] is a common cause. A torn, injured, or overstretched ligament is often responsible.

These cases should be treated as sprains—via heat and mild massage.

ELLIOTT HEAT TREATMENT.

H. I. writes: What is the Elliott heat treatment?

REPLY.

Treatment by the Elliott machine enables the physician to apply heat to the inside of the body. The method is used in prostatic and bladder diseases in men and pelvic inflammations in women.

CONSERVATOR ONE WAY.

Chicago, April 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a person receives a check, either a dividend or any other check, and this person to whom the check is made out is very sick, probably insurable [1] what does the family do in a case of that kind in order to cash this check and use it for the purpose of the incapacitated?

2. Said person is so sick he cannot sign or even make a cross.

We understand to take the patient's hand in order to have him make his cross would be illegal, as the person [3] doesn't know what he is signing.

The family needs the money badly and [4] yet to indorse a check for some one else is forgery. What legal advice can you give us? B. L.

1. If the patient's conditon continues long enough to make such course worth while a conservator would be appointed to take charge of his estate. The conservator would have power to indorse. If the patient dies, then an executor or administrator would be the proper person to indorse.

2 and 3. On such facts the patient is not in a position to indorse.

4. Correct. Conceivably you might induce the drawer of the check to substitute for the check a new one payable to some responsible member of the family.

FOOTNOTE ON THE MASSACRE.

Chicago, April 18.—I just saw a man—he was dying! Perhaps as I write this he is dead.

The peaceful kind of death that some look forward to is not his. For the cause of his suffering was just another automobile accident; yes, just another automobile accident.

I happened to be passing by, one of those who are occasionally referred to as lucky because they were present at the scene of an accident. Lucky? Yes indeed, lucky beyond expresion; for what I saw was a more striking lesson than I could possibly have learned by being told a thousand times.

I saw splinters of glass strewn in all directions like a coating of dew on the street.

I saw people gathering by the hundreds where ordinarily there would be none—like the drops of blood gathering together and already forming ugly clots on the forehead, cheek, and arm where ordinarily would fall the kisses of his dear ones. His breathing was choked and difficult—like the sobs that soon would engulf that wife, that son, that daughter.

Everything possible was being done for him, I was sure of that; so I went back to where I had stopped my own car and got in. I started off, but my mind kept going back to that scene. And as I thought about it my foot reached for the brakes, reducing my speed.

ALBERT G. LESTER.

MUSSOLINI AND SUEZ.

Chicago, April 15.—If the President of the United States thinks it is his duty to struggle for international justice and tell the quarrelsome European countries what is right and what is wrong, why is he so blind as to put the whole blame on one side and the whole merit on the other side? I admit, and perhaps we all admit, that Hitler and Mussolini are two troublesome fellows, but are France and England two innocent lambs?

Some time ago Mussolini said to his Black Shirts that one of the Italian claims toward France was Suez. Every one knows that he does not want the territorial possession of the canal, but he wants to share with all the peoples who send their ships through it the enormous profits of the company which owns it. Nobody can deny the righteousness of his claim because nobody can deny that the Suez canal is one of the great sea routes that should be absolutely international.

Why doesn't Mr. Roosevelt, if he really wants international justice, feel it necessary to suggest that his friends Daladier and Chamberlain accept at least the discussion of this just claim, and the discussion of all of the just claims of the two dictators? JOHN TERRA.

WHAT WAR COSTS.

Forest Park, Ill., April 18.—Perhaps if the peace loving citizens of these United States were again reminded of the terrific expenditure of money, munitions, and men wasted in the last great "war to end all wars," it would help to solidify sentiment against international interference:

The monetary cost of the world war is calculated to be approximately $41,765,000,000, which represents our contribution to save the world for democracy.

Our total army and navy casualties in actual combat overseas were approximately 361,094. CAREY O'FALLON.

A HARSH CRITIC.

Chicago, April 17.—"Everything THE TRIBUNE writes is wrong. Everything THE TRIBUNE does is wrong. Everything THE TRIBUNE thinks is wrong. Everything THE TRIBUNE prints is a lie. The editors of THE TRIBUNE are trying to sell this country down the river to Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy. The editors of THE TRIBUNE are schemers and connivers. The editors of THE TRIBUNE are paid agents of Hitler and Mussolini. The air they breathe is polluted. They have no conscience."

Does this line of thought sound familiar? It should; it is your own approach to those with whom you disagree. Consider how closely it parallels your accusations against President Roosevelt, who is always wrong no matter what he may do, who is always ill-intentioned, who never speaks the truth, according to your newspaper, and who is always trying to sell this country down the river.

The illogic of your position in the foreign policy of the country is rather easily demonstrated. You admit that Hitler and Mussolini are about on a par in international affairs with Capone and Torrio in local affairs. You certainly ought to know by this time how they act, first by sending paid agents into a smaller defenseless country to create provocative incidents, and then, as the racketeers do in local affairs, taking the country over as a protective measure. That is just what the racketeers do; they sell people "protection."

You know that the United States today holds the balance of world power. If it adopts an isolationist policy, what it is actually doing is to encourage these international racketeers to continue with their policy of grabbing defenseless territories and peoples for so-called "protection." In other words, isolation is not neutrality; it is definitly balancing the scales in favor of the international racketeers. EDGAR J. SCHOEN.

REFUGEES, NOT WAR ORPHANS.

Mukwonago, Wis., April 17.—The other day, in the Voice of the People column, I read a short article about the entrance of war orphans to this country, and the fact that they would be looking for people who would give them homes.

I should like very much to have the opportunity of giving a home to some of these children. Can you tell me what procedure is necessary in order to do this? What authorities would I have to contact, and what are the special qualifications necessary? Also, about when are they expected? D. W. NORRIS.

TREES IN PARKWAYS.

Chicago, April 16.—Many querulous articles have been printed about trees being removed from the city parkways and not replaced by new trees. Information obtained from the parks forestry office, city hall, is to the effect that trees are taken out only at the request of the property owners and that trees are not being replaced either by the city or WPA. C. W. SMITH.

HE LIKES COLOR.

Chicago, April 17.—As an interested reader of your great newspaper for most of my life, I want to extend a thought of gratitude to your organization, staff, and skilled workers.

The color photos in your picture section, also that of Jeanette MacDonald on another page, are, in my opinion, an art in newspaper development that is second to none. H. J. HANSON.

A DIVORCE REFORM PROGRAM.

Wilmette, Ill., April 18.—Anent Judge Desort's outburst regarding the divorce evil, the solution is positively simple. Just pass a law providing:

1. No woman shall receive alimony for a longer period than the term of her marriage, except, when in the opinion of a neutral group of physicians, she has become physically incapacitated. This will nip the short term gold diggers in the bud, protect the older wife.

2. Property settlements shall deal only with community property acquired after marriage. Dower rights shall end with divorce.

3. Prenuptial agreements shall be legalized.

All this would be swell, but we shall not see it as long as the courts and legislature are filled with a bunch of legal buzzards looking after their interests instead of the public's. T. F. B.

FOR A WAR REFERENDUM.

Chicago, April 18.—Please, women of the United States, before it's too late let's demand that the power to send our men into a foreign war be taken out of the hands of one man. Especially since that man has never given us reason to place our confidence in him.

If we hold the power to vote on it we can keep this country out of a war of aggression. We don't want to interfere in Europe any more than we would want the Europeans to meddle in our affairs. We'd get downright angry if they tried to tell us what to do, so it's no wonder they resent the interference of our President.

We need our husbands and sons. Let us fight for the right to say whether they shall stay or go.

MARION PIELER.

OBJECTS OF WAR.

Chicago, April 13.—I think THE TRIBUNE is making a great mistake in not supporting Roosevelt's foreign policy.

The shipping of millions of American soldiers into either a European or an Asiatic war, or both, with the wounding and killing of hundreds of thousands, necessarily would eliminate unemployment and would make possible the attainments of the New Deal's objectives, so that those Americans not killed by bullets, bombs or gas would thereby be enabled to enjoy the more abundant life.

Surely the mothers had as soon see their sons killed in Europe or Asia in supporting Ickes, Hull, Bullitt, and our dear President in their Christian efforts to save China and Africa from the clutches of the dictators as to starve in America. A ROOSEVELT SUPPORTER.

THE FCC MIGHT BLOCK IT.

Chicago, April 17.—President Roosevelt has no business rubbing our noses in European wars.

I suggest that you start a "national crusade of expression." Arrange with Western Union Telegraph and Postal Telegraph to send composite telegrams to Washington.

This could be done by a plan that for five cents [5c] the telegraph company would send a standard message. "Stop—Let Europe settle her own troubles," and sign the sender's name.

E. A. CROKER.

ADVICE TO CONGRESS.

Chicago, April 17.—May I suggest that you repeat the excerpt from Washington's farewell address on the editorial page and ask your readers to clip the quotation and send it to their senators and congressmen. ROY E. NELSON.

GEMS OF WISDOM FOUND IN STONES WORTH A MILLION

110 Jewelers Studying Own Art in City.

Twinkling on bits of cotton fluff in the Tower room of the Stevens hotel are a million dollars worth of precious gems. Also in the dazzling assortment are synthetic counterparts of the genuine stones. Alongside are dozens of newly developed magnifying instruments.

All of this set the stage for the annual conclave of the American Gem society, which began three days of study here yesterday. One hundred and ten midwest jewelers in the group are bent on extending their knowledge of the comparatively recent art of gemology.

Beauty is subordinated to value when they examine a stone through the diamondscope, the polariscope, and other devices which reveal the interior structure of jewels. Without these, even a practiced eye can seldom determine the nature of gems.

Seek to End Trade Confusion.

Precious stones are so varied that experts often mistake one kind for another. Some sapphires look like emeralds, for example.

"Ignorance rather than fraud often causes stones to be sold under wrong names," said George Arbogast of Chicago. "The public can be protected only by the knowledge of jewelers. That knowledge is increasing rapidly now."

What appeared to be a flawless ruby was placed in the diamondscope by Arbogast, who is vice president of the society. Streaks and tiny bubbles were revealed. These last said Arbogast, showed it was synthetic because the bubbles could be formed only by gas in manufacture.

Gems Make Good Nest Eggs.

"Commercial appraisal of valuable stones becomes more important because many purchasers are buying them for investment purposes," he said. "War scares and the possibility of currency depreciation lead people to build up a backlog of precious stones, which have an international value."

Jack H. Lund, society treasurer, said he recently sold $5,000 worth of unset stones to a wealthy Chicago woman who wanted them as "a reliable egg in her basket of ordinary investments."

The society was organized in 1934 under the leadership of Robert M. Shipley of Los Angeles.

CARDENAS PUSHES PLAN TO RETURN MEXICANS IN U. S.

MEXICO CITY, April 23.—(AP)—Plans for repatriation of thousands of Mexican families from southern border states of the United States are being rushed on several fronts at the direction of President Lazaro Cardenas. Reports here indicated that the trek back home from north of the Rio Grande might get under way the latter part of this month.

Cardenas now is on an extended tour of northern Mexican states which is expected to include a careful survey of the various problems incident to the repatriation program. He was reported yesterday in Matamoros, Tamaulipas, across the border from Brownsville, Tex.

Ramon Beteta, assistant secretary of foreign affairs, left recently for Texas and elsewhere to make a poll of Mexicans willing to accept the government's offer of free transportation back home, land to cultivate and credits to build homes and get their first crops harvested. He has reported the total willing as running into thousands.

POLICE HUNT $50 WEEK CASHIER IN A $100,000 THEFT

Mineola, N. Y., April 23.—[Special.]—Joseph Carbone, 37 years old, a $50 a week cashier for Doubleday, Doran & Co., was sought by the police tonight on a charge of stealing $100,000 from the company. Out of his loot, it is charged, he bought a $38,000 house, three expensive cars and a cabin cruiser. He disappeared in one of his three cars March 8, when auditors began to check through the books of the Literary Guild, a division of the publishing house.

Carbone cut a spectacular swath. He joined expensive clubs and posed as a man of independent means who worked for the fun of it. He maintained an elaborate household, with two servants to care for his wife and two children.

INDUCE HOSPITAL PATIENT TO PUT OFF DEATH LEAP

For half an hour early yesterday William Shand sat on the ledge of a third floor window of the Presbyterian hospital while nurses and interns pleaded with him not to jump. Shand, who is 35 years old and lives at 6802 North Wolcott avenue, is a patient in the hospital. He had left his room and climbed out on the ledge, where he sat calmly smoking cigarets. Firemen under Chief John Ryan of the 15th battalion spread a fire net to catch Shand if he jumped. After finishing his final cigaret, however, Shand climbed back into the hospital.

Two Saved After Sailboats Are Capsized by the Wind

Two persons were rescued yesterday when two small sailboats capsized in the lake. Robert Saunders, 17 years old, 7425 South Shore drive, was thrown into the cold water when his boat overturned a half mile off 75th street. Witnesses put out in a rowboat and brought him to shore. John Benton, 1200 Sherwin avenue, was picked up by a party in a speed boat when his boat overturned a mile off Devon avenue. The coast guard reported that a fresh wind was blowing off shore.

DR. F. F. SHANNON, CENTRAL CHURCH PASTOR, RESIGNS

Plans to Devote Time to Mission Preaching.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, for the last twenty years minister of Central church, yesterday announced his resignation from the famed Orchestra hall pulpit.

The Rev. Dr. Shannon.

Dr. Shannon, who is 62 years old, said he desired to devote his retirement to mission preaching and to teaching in seminaries and educational institutions. This had been a long cherished plan, he said.

"Central church has been made famous by my three distinguished predecessors," Dr. Shannon said. "I have likened David Swing to a harp, Dr. Hillis to a library, and Dr. Gunsaulus to a city. In using these three figures of speech I have tried to suggest the meaning of these three tremendous human figures — men who have meant much to Chicago and America."

Church Founded in 1875.

[Central church was founded in 1875 by Prof. David Swing, a Presbyterian liberal. He was succeeded in 1895 by Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis. Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus followed Dr. Hillis in 1899, with Dr. Shannon succeeding Dr. Gunsaulus in 1919.]

Bernard E. Sunny, president of the board of trustees of Central church, issued a statement at the close of yesterday morning's service. The statement said that Dr. Shannon had contemplated his resignation for some time. It also said that Dr. Shannon will continue in Central pulpit until summer.

Successor Not Yet Chosen.

The statement said that no successor to Dr. Shannon has been chosen. It added that the trustees will obtain the services of a minister of national reputation.

In a formal reply to Dr. Shannon's resignation the trustees spoke of the difficult problem of selecting a successor, saying that Dr. Shannon must now rank himself with the three famous men who built up the church.

ONE KILLED, 30 INJURED IN FIRE IN NIGHT CLUB

Mount Vernon, O., April 23.—(AP)—Panic in a flaming night club with more than 400 persons trampling one another in the rush to escape caused the death of one woman and injury of at least 30 early today. Miss Helen A. Colopy, 38 years old, of Mount Vernon was burned to death.

Many guests leaped from windows, some suffering broken bones. Most of the injured were trampled at or near the exits.

The Lake Cornell night club reopened last night after being closed for redecoration. Students from Kenyon college at nearby Gambier, O., made up a portion of the opening night crowd.

Bartender Marcel Cornille said the flames spread with amazing rapidity and that the whole building seemed on fire in less than five minutes. He said he smelled the odor of gasoline just before the fire. Its cause has not been determined.

Most of the injured were treated at Mount Vernon hospital. Two were Kenyon students. All but eight were released today. None was in serious condition.

Tucson, Ariz., April 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Isabella Selmes Greenway, former Arizona congresswoman and a close friend of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, was married in New York yesterday to Harry Orland King, president of the Institute of Applied Economics, she informed friends here today. Only immediate members of both families were present at the wedding in her New York home. It was Mrs. Greenway's third and King's second marriage.

BACTERIA REFUSE TREATMENT PLAN CALLED FAILURE

The city council finance committee will be informed tomorrow that a patented bacteria process for treating refuse failed to eliminate objectionable odors and vermin after a thirty day trial at two open city dumps on the northwest side.

This is the substance of two separate reports. They were prepared by investigators for the city board of health, and by the research foundation of the Armour Institute of Technology. The city council had appropriated $6,000 for the experiments.

Under controled laboratory conditions, the reports stated, bacteria will reduce garbage, but not under conditions found in the pits. Property owners near the dumps have complained of conditions.

You've hit your inner stride
....when you regain healthy per-i-stal-sis
Your step has vitality, you face work and play with equal drive, once you hit your inner stride!
How do you hit that stride? By keeping per-i-stal-sis steady, even. Peristalsis is the contracting ... expanding motion in the intestines. When it keeps up regularly, you feel free. When it slows down, you have that constipated feeling.
Then—to clear the way for healthy peristalsis, you may need a gentle ... thorough ... flushing-out. That's when to try Eno!
How fluid-action aids
Eno—taken in water—helps bring moisture from other parts of the body to the intestines, where extra fluid is needed at such times. This fluid-action ... together with a mild stimulation ... flushes out waste, gives welcome relief.
Once you eliminate freely, normal peristalsis has a chance to start again. You can gradually get back to schedule—hit your inner stride!
Eno alkalizes, too
Sparkling, refreshing Eno also helps neutralize excess stomach acids ... an important extra benefit.
Whenever you're off-stride, try Eno's alkalizing fluid-action. Feel sparkle ... lift ... lightness return. Get Eno now at any drug store.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Maxwell Anderson, who can scent the dramatic potentialities of history faster and more unerringly than any other American playwright, has now turned away from kings and queens and England and Scotland. He has been looking into the private and public lives of the founding fathers of New York—or Nieuw Amsterdam, as it was called back in the seventeenth century. Finding them both fat and funny, he has placed them in the frame of a musical comedy, his first essay in this form of entertainment.

As a foil for the baggy pantaloons and rotund paunches of Tienhoven, De Peyster, Van Rensselaer, Roosevelt, and the rest, we are introduced to Peter Stuyvesant, the last and strongest of the Dutch governors, in the magnetic person of Walter Huston. Peter Stuyvesant, it seems, had a peg leg of the handsomest silver. Part of the merriment of "Knickerbocker Holiday" consists in observing the consummate technique with which Mr. Huston moves about upon this artificial extremity.

Mr. Huston is the kingpin in a fairly conventional tale of a young couple [Jeanne Madden and Richard Kollmar] whose love is rendered uncertain by the demand that the girl, for political reasons, must marry the newly arrived governor. The complications are introduced and solved in typical musical comedy manner, though not without a nearly consummated hanging and a stirring battle with the Indians.

If "Knickerbocker Holiday" rested wholly upon its bare plot and upon its wholly delightful pictorial values, it would hardly seem pictorially significant. But the glow of life and beauty is in the lines of its dialog, in the song lyrics, everywhere that Mr. Anderson has set his hand to it.

Beneath its winning and frivolous exterior the story is a vigorous political satire, an earnest and often frankly emotional appeal upon behalf of the historic democratic system in American politics. Mr. Anderson will not sit by idly while the perquisites he considers to be those of a free society are handed over to regimented governmental control. Brom Broeck, the young hero, represents "the first American," because he has a constitutional aversion to taking orders. Stuyvesant is a guileful dictator, easy with promises to those who will agree with him.

These political issues do not obtrude themselves heavily or humorlessly. Yet it is hard to say whether "Knickerbocker Holiday" leaves a stronger impression as an ebullient period piece or as a passionate plea for free institutions.

The members of the cast discharge their duties attractively. Mr. Huston, both as singer and actor, demonstrates wonderfully how economy and simplicity transmute themselves into dramatic power. Ray Middleton, remembered well for his racy impersonation of the giant in Louis Gruenberg's "Jack and the Beanstalk" over at the Civic Opera house, stopped the show last night with his virile, honest singing. As Washington Irving, sitting on the sidelines and working at his history of New York, he serves as an interlocutor.

Miss Madden's pert person and wiry soprano voice and Mr. Kollmar's round voice and well schooled presence add interest, though not quite real distinction, to the romantic parts. The Dutch fathers are richly caricatured, with George Watts topping the others in sheer hilarity.

Kurt Weill's musical score is more sophisticated and yet more banal than the best Broadway products. At its best it is imaginative and charming; at its worst it still has an effete echo of laborious continental postwar jazz.

Their Engagement Told

White Costume Jewelry Adorns Street Clothes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

White hats, white gloves, and the new and startling white costume jewelry have arrived. They are accents for prints or solid colored street and daytime clothes. White straw hats are tremendously effective with colored veils and head anchor bands. Sooty black picot edged ribbon loops all over the top of a small crown to give additional height. Dozens of cool white small flowers are bunched on some with a leaf green anchor band that is matched with a two yard green veil carelessly caught over the entire hat. Black lace ties around a crown banded in scarlet ribbon.

Crisp stiff white sailors in starched piqué, straw, bengaline, and crêpe have perky bows of either white or colored rickrack. Wide meshed fish net makes entire turbans in dull white, long streamers drop down the side or back.

White costume jewelry is exceptionally lovely in new flower forms. Snowdrops, white Shasta daisies, hyacinths, and any number of garden flowers have been copied in fragile looking composition with leaf green foliage and yellow centers as color dramatics.

Big, shiny white mothballs jangle on a gold metal chain in a thick, chunky necklace double link chain, unexpectedly featherweight, in two or three strands combines white with transparent, tinkling prystal.

One of the conversation pieces is the bracelet with a nautical savor—a link chain that fastens with a wee white anchor has a blue bottle dangling in the center. In the corked bottle is one of those baffling problem ships scudding over a rough sea.

G. W. Dixon Jr. Is Betrothed to Racine Girl

BY JUDITH CASS.

AMONG the engagements that are being announced today the one that will come as the greatest surprise, excepting, of course, to the intimate friends of the families concerned, is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Willard T. Walker of Racine, Wis., are making of the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to George W. Dixon Jr. Mr. Dixon, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dixon, is a member of an old and large Chicago family. He is a grandson of the late Arthur Dixon and has one sister, Mrs. Stanley Zaring.

The announcement was made at a tea in the Walker home yesterday. Mr. Dixon, who is one of Chicago's most popular bachelors, and the Zarings, who just have returned from their winter home in Florida, spent the week-end in Racine. Several of their friends went north for the party.

Miss Walker is a graduate of Kemper Hall, Pine Manor, and of the I. Phillips conservatory in Paris. She is a member of the board of the Racine Junior league.

Mr. Dixon is a graduate of Phillips-Andover academy and of Northwestern university. The engagement of his cousin, Miss Ethel Dixon, to Alexander Charles Fletcher was announced recently by her parents, the Homer L. Dixons. The Dixon-Walker and Fletcher-Dixon weddings will take place in June.

Barbara Hess Engaged to Winfield T. Durbin II.

At a small cocktail party at home in Wayne yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miner Hess announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Gay, to Winfield Taylor Durbin II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin of 1449 Astor street.

The announcement did not come as a surprise to many of those who gathered to drink a toast to Mr. Durbin and his fiancée, for he has been a devoted beau of Miss Hess for several months. They plan to be married in June.

Miss Hess attended Miss Wheeler's school at Providence, R. I., and since making her debut in the 1937-38 season she has been studying at the Art institute. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league and of the Service club.

Mr. Durbin is a graduate of Lawrenceville, Williams, and of the Harvard law school. He has one sister, Mrs. S. Prentice Porter of Lake Forest.

June Wilson to Be Bride of George Woodland.

At a tea at home in Evanston on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Alan F. Wilson announced the engagement of their daughter, June, to George Woodland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Woodland of Kenilworth.

Pretty Miss Wilson, who attended the Roycemore school and Northwestern university, has danced in Service club revues and is active in that organization. Mr. Woodland prepared at the Choate school and was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale, at which he was a member of St. Anthony and of Torch, the honorary senior society, and captain of the wrestling team.

Mr. Woodland is engaged in business in Milwaukee, but spends weekends in Kenilworth. His sister, the former Virginia Woodland, was mar-

Good Morning!

And they did this to the man who played in "Cimarron"!

What's the matter with "this"?

Well, practically nothing, except that "Twelve Crowded Hours" is a third rate, unoriginal, sloppily constructed, poorly dialogued uninteresting racketeer melodrama in no way worthy of that very excellent actor, Mr. Richard Dix—AND a most able supporting cast.

Which, I guess, just about covers the situation so far as the film's concerned. BUT—

On the stage at the Oriental everybody's lamby pie, Hugh Herbert, is carrying on, wow wow! You'll find him exactly the same in real life as he is in reel life and have the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Herbert, who tagged along—according to Herbert—to spend California money in Chicago stores.

News of Hugh's visit is packing the Oriental and audiences are loving him because he's just himself—no trimmin's.

See you tomorrow.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Lois Raley to Harvey Stalder has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando B. Raley of 145 North Homan boulevard. Mr. Stalder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stalder of 718 North Leamington avenue.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., April 23.—Belief that the movie vs. radio war had been patched up not completely true. M.-G.-M.'s "Good News" show will disappear from the air after the June 29 show. M.-G.-M. will not permit Frank Morgan to go on another program, but Fannie Brice, not under studio contract, will be available. L. K. Sidney, shipped out from New York to handle the Metro airer, will become a movie producer as a result of the grand job he has accomplished. Belle Baker, Gertrude Niesen, and Helen Morgan will follow each other into Marcel Lamaze's spot for the next nine weeks. They'll nick him $18,000. . . . George Brent and Bette Davis will be unveiled publicly as a twosome at the "Juarez" première. . . . Richard Barthelmess and his wife celebrating their eleventh anniversary in the midst of a wave of Hollywood bustups [so maybe it's the people, and not the town, that swells local divorce records.] . . . Current rumor is that Sam Goldwyn will move into the M.-G.-M. setup.

Hollywood correspondents up in arms because major studios now are previewing pictures day and date in other cities. Army of local writers point out that there is no sense in covering the Hollywood beat if they don't get first look at completed product to flash news to rest of country. . . . Local radio marts getting ready for summer slump, with Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen, and Bob Hope all going east or taking summer vacations. . . . Best guess is that Dorothy Lamour and Randy Scott will get together now. . . . Lupe Velez with Jimmy Bryant. . . . Harvey Priester with Barbara McLean. . . . Jo Ann Sayre with George Sidney. . . . Dorothy Lee with Buster Keaton. . . . Reggie Gardiner and Mary Brian night clubbing every night.

"Union Pacific," "Juarez," and "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" all scheduled for previews this week. . . . The Basil Rathbones will adopt a youngster. . . . The W. P. Lipscombs expect Sir Stork. . . . Recommended: Columbia's "Blind Alley," a "B" picture with "A" performances. . . . Between denying that she wrote that magazine story panning Hollywood, and admitting it, Elaine Barrie is in a dither. Zasu Pitts has been signed for the John Stahl flicker and also goes into Ann Neagle's "Nurse Cavell." . . . Mrs. Jimmy Wallington went to Reno—for her sister's wedding.

The Laurence Olivier-Vivien Leigh wedding rumors revived. . . . Republic, Paramount, and United Artists due for shakeups. . . . Paul Lukas to England for three pictures. One of them will be G. B. Shaw's "The Doctor's Dilemma."

Letter dated March 31 at hand from Ben Lyons and Bebe Daniels in London pointing out that the guest column contributed by Robert Z. Leonard while I was vacationing has had repercussions in England. Leonard, in reconstructing the Hollywood of thirty years ago, noted that at Ocean park Bebe Daniels and Harold Lloyd were winning dancing cups. . . . "I'm 38 years old," pens Bebe, "and I swear to you that I wasn't winning dancing cups with Harold Lloyd when I was 8 years old. Tell Bob Leonard I'll never forgive him for making me out to be between 47 and 50." Ben and Bebe are a terrific success abroad and their Radio Revue is the No. 1 program on the continent.

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff stops at a cabin where Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal ranch, has taken refuge. She treats him haughtily but offers him food. Jeff tells her of his escape from Mexico.

INSTALMENT VII.

A FEUDAL KINGDOM.

Joan Raleigh told Jeff, in her southern drawl, that he was a right good cook. But there was no need to tell him. She had fine strong teeth, and the way they went at his flapjacks and bacon was a certificate of approval.

Together they did the dishes and put them away, then went out into the sunshine to the car. A little breath of wind moderated the heat of the sun.

They found wagon tracks that led to a road of sorts. It went meandering through the brush, dodging the heaviest thickets and following a crooked line of least resistance. Joan was an expert driver. Muscles and will synchronized perfectly. In spite of her slenderness she was strong. He guessed she was good at sports. In her environment she would naturally be an excellent rider. Nowadays girls made a point of playing a good game of tennis and practically living in the water during the summer season. Her firm fleshed arms would sweep a golf club round with fluent rhythmic grace.

"Your friends will be glad to see you back from darkest Africa, Dr. Livingstone," he said.

She frowned, momentarily annoyed at all the disturbances her absence must have caused at the ranch. Probably scores of men had lost a night's sleep because of her.

"I'll never hear the last of it from my brothers," she answered. "It was a silly business."

The thorned thicket grew less dense, gave way to a rolling country with small prairies. They began to see cattle and presently came to a fenced field in which sat an adobe house. Four or five Mexican children watched them approach. The youngsters were curious but shy, ready to scatter at a moment's notice. The travelers drew up to put water in the radiator. A wrinkled native with a blanket flung over his shoulder, lean and long as a buckskin thong, pointed to a spring beneath a pole roof. Jeff found an oil can and filled it. In a flat bottomed trough pans of sweet milk were sitting in water, a bolt of mosquito bar stretched above them to keep off flies.

"I warned you about that," he told her.

Twenty miles farther up the road they met a ricket old car driven by a Mexican. At sight of Joan he drew up. A wide smile showed white teeth almost from ear to ear. He began to thank the Holy Virgin.

"I got lost Pedro," she explained, "so I stayed last night at the river cabin."

The country continued to improve as they advanced. Large fenced pastures in which great numbers of fine fat cattle grazed took the place of jungle. Fields of hay and corn dotted the landscape. Once they ran through a Mexican adobe village. It swarmed with children scantily clad, but with no evidence of lack of proper nourishment.

"I suppose the fathers of all these youngsters work on the ranch for your people," Jeff said.

"And their fathers before them," the girl answered. "Our people stay from generation to generation."

"They must be very loyal."

"If they are not we get rid of them. Pancho Banderas was one of those my brother discharged. His father and mother, and two of his brothers, are still with us. Pancho was no good—born to make trouble. You found that out?"

"Yes. It nearly cost me my life." He recurred to the subject of the ranch employés. "It is interesting to find in 20th century machine age America a little feudal kingdom operating. I'm surprised that a lot of the young men don't drift away."

"They do. Nobody stays who does not want to live here. If anybody wants to adventure into the world outside that is his privilege. A good many of our people are like children in a sense. If they stay with us they are protected. They have security. It is their home, just as it is ours. The old folks are sure of food, friendliness, and a place to sit in the sun."

"You have no labor troubles—no simmering wage discontent?"

"None that boils to the surface, anyhow." The girl smiled. "My oldest brother manages our properties, and he is an autocrat. What he says goes. But most of our people are quite happy. They have their fiestas and their bailes. They fall in love and marry and the old folks in time die. They are really far better off here than their countrymen outside."

A plane soared above them in a wide circle. "Looking for me, I reckon," she said. "I expect brother Bill is piloting it."

"A ranch plane?" he asked.

"Yes. We have a couple. Do you fly?"

"Only as a passenger."

"You've missed something. It's fun to sit at the controls."

Looking at her, he was not surprised that she was a pilot. There was an elan about her that suggested she was a girl eager for experience. He could imagine her flying through the heavens, all her senses keyed to keenest pleasure.

"Have you done much solo flying?" he asked.

"Maybe a hundred hours," she answered carelessly.

They struck a wide graveled road and bowled along it for fifteen miles. Half a dozen times Joan had to stop and give her explanation. Down a long paved avenue shaded by cottonwood trees they moved toward a great white house at the end of it. Wide acres of lawn ran up to the immense mansion. At least half a dozen gardeners were busy among the flowers which flanked the lawn.

A man came out to the porch and looked silently at Joan. He was dressed in boots, fine white corduroy trousers, and a light blue silk shirt. His age might have been 35, and he was a strikingly handsome man. There was a remarkable resemblance between him and the girl.

She descended from the car. "Well, I'm home, Phil," she said.

"Where have you been?" he asked.

He did not raise his voice. There was a slight drawl in it. None the less the question was a curt imperative.

"At one of our cabins down by the river. I got lost." She indicated Jeff. "This is Mr. Hunter. Mr. Hunter, my brother, Mr. Raleigh."

Phil Raleigh acknowledged the introduction, but with no evidence of pleasure. Evidently it was not his habit to be genial to strangers. He looked as though he was wondering what the devil the fellow was doing here.

"I warned you about that," he told the girl. "We've been looking for you all night."

"I'm sorry," she said.

"That doesn't give us back our sleep. I don't like it."

"I see you don't," she answered, a cool, little whip lash in her voice. "But I reckon you'll have to put up with it, since it's too late to mend. I met Mr. Hunter down by the river. He had just come across it under his own power, with shots spattering the water around him."

Raleigh turned his dark imperious eyes on his sister's guest.

"You swam the river?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Why?"

Jeff did not like his manner. "To get across," he said.

"I suppose you had a reason."

"Yes. I was running away from a bunch of insurgents."

Joan explained. "There's a thrilling story back of it, Phil. Mr. Hunter was a prisoner of Pancho Banderas, expecting to be shot, and he succeeded in escaping."

"Interesting," her brother commented.

"Mr. Hunter found me at the river and was very kind to me," the girl said.

"Not at all," Jeff demurred. "The kindness was all on the other side. I'm wondering whether you have a car likely to be going to the nearest town today. From there I can wire my business associates, if you can give me a lift that far." He spoke to the brother, his eyes and voice cold.

"There will be a car going to Raleigh and perhaps one to Trail End. If there weren't, I could arrange for one." The cattleman unbent a little.

Reader Gives Gist of Ways to Guide Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Such satisfying letters as come to us! They make us feel that more and more of this generation's children are going to meet mature life with that fine human experience behind them—a childhood spent with an understanding mother. This is the kind of letter I mean:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have a 6½ year old and a baby less than a year, and as yet have had no real problems with them. I believe this is greatly due to the fact that I have tried to be understanding, shown keen interest in them at all times, and depend more on reasoning than on punishment to attain the ends desired.

"I've let my older child do the things she wanted to do as much as possible, within reason. Things she really must not do I've tried to explain why, and get a great deal of coöperation.

"When the baby was well on its way we told her all about it and have tried since its arrival to have her feel as important in the family as ever. And she loves the baby.

"Now, would you send me your suggestions on in-betweens? There seems to be material on all sides on pre-schools and adolescents, but right now the years from 6 to 12 interest me most."

Here in a few words is the gist of the whole matter to which this column is devoted.

As to the years of a child's life between 6 and 11 or 12, it is true that less attention is given to the study of that period than to any other—than to babyhood, pre-school years, or adolescence. When I first began writing about it I called it the "no-man's land of the in-between years," because psychologists and writers on child guidance had so neglected it.

This period between little childhood and the teens does present different behavior, due to a physical state and what we might call "social experiences" that are very different from those of the two "ends" of a boy or girl's life—the two ends being babyhood and adolescence.

This differentness of behavior is of a sort that seems to have a particularly upsetting effect on parents. And the effect is too often registered by mothers and fathers in annoyance, irritability, and impatience. But let them understand what it is all about and the scene changes and the house atmosphere is cleared.

The subject will be continued tomorrow.

"Living with Our In-betweens—Children from Six to Twelve" is the name of a booklet sent on request. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Final Concert Shows Gains of Civic Orchestra

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In Orchestra hall yesterday the Civic Orchestra of Chicago played the last concert of its season. The difficult second symphony of Brahms, with which the program closed, served to sum up admirably all that these young musicians have learned this year from Conductor Hans Lange and from the various assistants who have coached them.

Certainly they have learned to fuse their individual personalities into a persuasive whole. The orchestra played the symphony with a precision that persisted even through difficult nuances and with a collective verve which can come only from the wholehearted coöperation of every last member of the band. The audience saluted the orchestra cordially at the conclusion of the concert.

Besides the Brahms, the program held the overture to Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis," the nocturne and scherzo from Mendelssohn's incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and Albert Noelte's suite for winds, percussions, and harp.

Kimball hall heard three debuts yesterday. In the afternoon Elizabeth Biro, soprano, sang a program drawn from Italian, German, Russian, Hungarian, and American sources. In the evening Anne Gershon, soprano, and Charles Sheldon, baritone, offered operatic airs, folk songs, and a miscellany of other things.

On the credit side of Miss Biro's ledger is a sincerity and simplicity of manner, a voice which is good in quality when it is not pushed too hard, and the ability to vary her colorings and tempi naturally. Her principal trouble is a frequently explosive attack which makes it very hard for her to achieve a true legato or a true pianissimo. And there does not seem to be enough support forthcoming when she gets high in her range or high in the dynamic scale. Also, there were grave pitch difficulties two or three times.

Miss Gershon has an extremely clear and well focused voice which becomes hard and glittering only when she abuses it. She abused it seriously in the "Bell Song" from "Lakme" and quite failed to give the fireworks of the song any ease and splendor. In music that lay within her powers she achieved some beautiful color effects.

Mr. Sheldon has a nicely textured baritone which he does not project properly. Many words are lost before they pass the lips. He has not yet developed the breath support and resonance needed for a plausible performance of such a sulphurous thing as Mephistopheles' "Veau d'Or."

CHICAGO DANCERS' CONCERT

Seven prominent Chicago dancers pooled their talents yesterday afternoon in the second Goodman theater concert of the Chicago Dance council series. Appearing both singly and as a modern dance group of six members were Frances Allis, Ana Kurgans, Leyah Lucatsky, Eloise Moore, Ann Port, and Mildred Zook. Katharine Dunham danced only in solo, contributing her evocative and exquisitely costumed "Biguine-Biguine."

The program opened with three group dances to Bach's music, choreographed by Miss Allis. Despite the various sources of their technique, the dancers managed to achieve an agreeable uniformity of style. The compositions themselves were more lucid and intelligible than those Miss Allis created for her own recent recital, though they still seemed to lack both wallop and the stamp of individuality.

The afternoon's pressing schedule did not allow me to see any of the solo dances except Ana Kurgans' "Waltz in March Time," to music by Ravel. Her movement seemed incompletely disciplined and rather crudely composed, but the dance had a good idea in its alternation of a fluent waltz with rigorous march.

The program attracted a good sized audience and opened an interesting vista of the future possibilities of coöperative activity among local dancers.

Out at the University of Chicago, according to a discriminating report, the University of Michigan Little Symphony, conducted by Thor Johnson, revealed itself as an ensemble of exceptional merit. Among the virtues noted by my scout were excellent balance, pure intonation, plastic and sensitive phrasing and tone color of refined delicacy.

Margaret Bonds, gifted Negro pianist, played in Curtiss hall under the auspices of the Allied Arts academy. In a group of Brahms intermezzi and rhapsodies Miss Bonds communicated real emotional force, and demonstrated a reliable technical command of the instrument. In the more delicate moments of the music she did not always quite capture the composer's quiet lyricism.

The Beaux Arts concert in the Medinah club presented as debutantes Florence Klein, pianist, and Dorthe Paulsen, soprano. I should prefer to review them both two years from now, when they have more completely discovered a sound technical basis for public performance.—C. S.

Detachment.

It's Eddy Duchin's story. A panhandler stopped a pedestrian and asked for a penny.

"I haven't had food for four days," he said.

"What good will a penny do you?" inquired the pedestrian.

"I want to drop it in a weighing machine and see how much I've lost," answered the other.

The other night Duchin, accompanied by Tony Owen, both of whom are on a diet, motored to the country after Duchin's last appearance at the piano in the Empire room. They arrived at 4 a. m. and a thoughtful host had left a handsome spread on the dining room table. In spite of the variety of fare they ate only salad, and that sparingly. Each time Owen started to try anything else Duchin would remind him: "Can't have that. It's fattening." A dog upstairs began barking.

"I'm going upstairs and bite the pants off that dog if he doesn't stop barking," commented Owen.

"You can't. It's fattening," retorted Duchin.

Poet and Painter.

A painter am I, of all things, writes Ivan Le Lorraine Albright in his first published poetry in Creative Writing, the new Chicago literary magazine edited and published by Margaret and Robert Williams. Albright received attention recently when it was discovered that his entry in the international water color show at the Art institute has tiny shutters painted on the glass to screen a nude figure in the second story window of a house in the picture. He has three poems in the magazine.

The Housewife

If you're a dog owner, you'll certainly want to make your little friend a present of a fascinating new toy. And if you're not, but have friends who own dogs just get one to give away and see how popular you'll become. For dogs go for these toys as a cat goes for catnip.

You see, they're rabbit scented. Also, they squeak. They come in three different shapes and are made of heavy material that can be "worried" and thrown around and chewed for an indefinite period. Any canine that does not go mad with joy when presented with this new gadget is either superannuated or frightfully blasé. EDITH WEIGLE.

From their home in North Greenwich, Conn., Mr and Mrs. Clarence Mott Woolley have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Doriane, to John G. Danish Royalty to Have Typical American Party.

The musical and reception that Consul Reimund Baumann of Denmark and Iceland and Mrs. Baumann will give tonight at the Woman's Athletic club for their crown prince and princess will be a typical American party. It is quite natural that the Baumanns should have no difficulty in planning such an affair, for they have lived in Chicago for seventeen years and their daughters, Miss Vilma and Miss Remor, and their son, Harald, are as American in their manners and tastes as most of their Chicago friends.

The musical will start at 9:30 o'clock with the reception following the program. Prince Frederik and Princess Ingrid will dine quietly with Mr. and Mrs. Baumann before the musical.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Small are giving a small dinner at the Casino before the Baumann party.

The opening of Gertrude Lawrence in "Skylark" at the Harris theater tonight will be a gala occasion, for the star made many friends here during her recent long run in "Susan and God."

Seymour Blair has been called out of town so the performance of the French play that he and Mrs. Philip Maher and Mrs. Ambrose Cramer were to give tomorrow for Le Cercle Français members has been canceled. Instead Mrs. Max M. Sorson and Mrs. Harry Dingman will give a play written by the former. Corrado Baselli, Florentine tenor, will make his Chicago debut by singing a group of songs. Mrs. John Storrs and Mrs. Alden B. Swift will pour tea after the program.

The Italy-America society has cards out for an evening of Italian poetry and related music by Edna Kellogg at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Pearce McCullough, 1420 Lake Shore drive. Miss Kellogg will interpret Sem Benelli's poem, "L'Amore dei Tre Re," to the music of Italo Montemezzi. Frederick Farrel will be at the piano.

"An Evening in Cathay" to Be Given in Orchestra Hall.

"An Evening in Cathay," which was given at the International house and at the Woman's club of Evanston earlier this season, is to be given again in Orchestra hall next Wednesday night under the auspices of the Adult Education council, the American Friends of China, and the Chicago Church Committee for China Relief. Members of the Chinese Cultural Theater group, which presents the performance, will be especial guests at a tea today for the Friends of China at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster of 209 Lake Shore drive. Receiving with Mrs. Dempster will be Miss Lucy Driscoll, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. John P. Welling, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, and Mrs. A. H. Patterson.

The last in a series of chamber music concerts conducted by Hans Lange with the Philharmonic String quartet assisting will be given at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Miss Mary Paul Welling, Miss Mary Seymour Adams and Mrs. Theodore Tieken will be ushers.

The Tavern's annual dinner for its new members will be given at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Called a Spring Muster of the Crew, the atmosphere of the party will be nautical. The dinner is for men only.

Mrs. Chauncey K. Hutchins Leaves for Wedding Today.

Mrs. Chauncey Keep Hutchins is going east today to attend the prenuptial parties for her sister, Miss Mary Porter Wardwell, and James Simonds, who are to be married on May 11 in Brookline, Mass. The wedding will take place in Emmanuel church, where the former Polly Wardwell and Mr. Hutchins were married a year ago last February.

Mrs. Hutchins will be matron of honor for her sister. They are daughters of the Sheldon Eaton Wardwells of Brookline. Mr. Hutchins, who will go east shortly before the wedding, will be an usher.

Comfortably Styled Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

Especially during the warm weather we housewives appreciate the comfort of a loosely fitted house dress. The wrap-around model is singularly neat and cool, and we're presenting what we think is an especially smart version of this style.

The neckline may be styled in a simple V with or without collar. Down the side may be a row of buttons or not, as you choose. The puffed sleeves may have cuffs. They would be smart if you use a collar. The belt is inserted through notches and ties in the back, or it may fasten with a buckle or buttons, whichever you find most convenient.

Both prints and plain shades make up well, and you probably will want to select one of the cottons or linens available in wide assortment in the shops. Rickrack braid makes a neat, inexpensive, and easy to apply trimming for this frock.

Style No. 3041 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 3½ yards of rickrack braid.

Clotilde patterns are 10 cents each. Address orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Accessories on a Simple Dress Add Up to Chic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Trim accessories spell smartness and quick changes are now possible through modern methods of simple fastening.

Take a simple dress, add a few dainty, well chosen accessories, and you have the foundation for a wardrobe that is eminently chic. For cloudy days, when you need cheering up, slip into a flowered topper. When you're in a dashing mood tie one of these long, narrow scarfs around the neck, drape it across the blouse, and wind it around your waist.

For that fresh-as-a-daisy look that invariably makes men sit up and take notice snap on a piqué collar and cuff set, a "baby bib" of embroidered batiste, or any of the flattering lingerie touches that pop up perennially each spring. No wardrobe is ever monotonous with such an assortment of accessories as long as they are kept immaculate.

Most of these subsidiaries to spring smartness have the qualities that make them ideally practical for girls with good taste in clothes, but little time or money to indulge it. Button-on arrangements, snap fasteners, and ingenious methods of tying, make it easy to accomplish sleight of hand transformations when a change is in order for variety or cleanliness.

The job of keeping them clean has been reduced to practically nothing. With manufacturers converted practically 100 per cent to the use of fabrics that are washable, all these accessories need is dousing in rich soapsuds, thorough rinsing, and a brief kneading in a clean absorbent towel before they are pressed and attached to the dress. For silks and rayons and for all printed fabrics water temperature for both washing and rinsing should be evenly lukewarm.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We've never before found a rouge of the cream variety so easy to use as a greaseless one that came out recently. It's heaven sent to the woman who has a horror of that rouged look and who knows in her heart that she is not so expert as she ought to be in applying color to her cheeks.

This is not, strictly speaking, a cream rouge. It's described as a greaseless rouge cream, which is exactly what it is. It's a foundation cream into which the coloring matters have been skilfully blended. It isn't greasy, nor stiff. It spreads on and blends as smoothly and easily as the lightest kind of a foundation cream. It's easy to get the color exactly where you want it, in precisely the intensity you want, and you couldn't get a harsh edge if you tried.

We do hate too much rouge and are all for the eastern custom of using too little rather than too much. Deftness of application is half the battle. This rouge cream wins a high prize from us because you don't have to be very deft to do a good job of getting the subtle smooth touch of color right.

The shades in this new rouge cream are a little deceptive in the jar; they'll look lighter or less vivid than similar tints will in other kinds of rouges. But on the skin they have a lovely warmth. And there are eight shades from which to choose, a pretty one for just about every type.

You'll use this rouge sparingly; a little goes a long way. And, while the color is not strong to the eye, it lasts. You won't fade out as the day wears on. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Limburger cheese and its little brother Liederkranz have at last emerged from the aroma of vulgarity which so long surrounded them, and now are accepted on the most discriminating dinner tables. The strong odors of these fine cheeses have hampered their careers. But when served cold their smells are minimized and their flavors aren't affected adversely, a fact which has led to many conversions among cheese enthusiasts.

There are some who still declare that the only way to eat Limburger or Liederkranz is at room temperature when the cheese is soft and odorous.

There's a good processed Limburger cheese which is almost odorless, and which has come into popular favor as a buffet treat and a dessert cheese as well. This may be served to a group which includes persons who might object to natural Limburger.

When storing Limburger, Liederkranz, or other strong cheese, wrap it well in wax paper and put in a closely covered container such as a fruit jar before placing it in the refrigerator. Otherwise the penetrating odors will affect other foods kept in the same place. It is best to buy these cheeses in small portions, only as much as you wish to serve at one time. Limburger may be purchased by the pound, or in 8 ounce packages; Liederkranz comes usually in a 4 ounce foil-wrapped package.

Both these cheeses are made in this country, though Limburger formerly was imported from Belgium, where it originated. First marketed in Limburg, Belgium, its manufacture spread to Germany and to the United States. Large quantities are made in New York and Wisconsin. Liederkranz is made in Ohio.

Both these cheeses improve upon acquaintance. I should like to urge readers who like cheese but who have been afraid to try these strong flavored, odorous types to give them a chance. Their flavor is really delicious, and you'll learn to like the smell. Once you've made friends of them, they'll be friends for life, and afford you much eating pleasure.

Try the deodorized, processed Limburger first. And chill your Liederkranz well before you eat it for the first time. I doubt very much that many persons will fail to be won over after a trial or two. These cheeses are favorites of a cultivated taste, not an instinctive liking.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Recently you published a hand which you labeled 'the worst played hand of the month.' I must differ with you. The hand I am sending contains more atrocities than yours can begin to claim. Furthermore, I feel you can use it in your column as an example of both atrocious bidding and horrendous play. The first hand I had played with this particular partner showed him to be very weak. This was the second—and last—one for me, for that session, as I get no enjoyment from such playing.

"The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	?

"As South, I debated doubling, but hesitated because of my judgment of partner's play. West turned to me and said: 'So you're thinking of doubling, eh? I dare you!' So I doubled to oblige him and he redoubled, which I expected. All passed. My partner, North, led the heart four. Of course, East's jump to three spades was horrible and West told him so, and appealed to me and I concurred. Two spades was plenty on that hand.

"But to go on with the play: Dummy played low to the first trick. I won with the ace and returned the club jack. Declarer ducked—and so did my partner! Atrocious! Had he put up his club queen and returned his eight spot I would have overtaken and forced West's ace. This would have given me five club tricks, one heart and one spade for a three trick set, redoubled, and West couldn't stop it, no sir, nohow. But as it was, my jack held, so I led the club ten. And now my partner took the queen and returned a spade. Dummy ducked and I won with the king. Knowing now that clubs were hopeless, I led the diamond three, and declarer ducked! He thereby defeated himself 'by default' [as one kibitzer labeled it]. That declarer surely pulled as bad a boner as my partner did. At this point he had more than enough tricks to be able to claim the balance.

"To sum up: Properly played throughout, declarer should have been down 1,000 points. As it was defended, he could have made game redoubled for 700 points. As played by both sides, he was down 200 points. So while we made 200 points, we actually lost 800. Declarer, since he could have gained 1,700 points, but lost 200, actually lost 1,900. Yah, bridge players.—J. A. C., New York."

I imagine that my comment on this hand will prove something of a shock to my correspondent. Not that I disagree with his forceful criticism of East's bidding or of his partner's failure to unblock the club queen, but I urgently call attention to South's own stated opinion of his partner's bridge ability, and I submit that it would have been a good idea for South to have protected himself from what actually happened.

After the club jack held the second trick, South should earnestly have considered the possibility that his partner held the club queen and had foolishly failed to unblock it. If declarer had the ace and queen, and had held up for some reason, it would not matter whether South continued with the club king or the ten. It was possible that North had the club ace and declarer the queen and, if that were the case, it would, of course, be necessary to lead a low club or the ten after the jack held. But in view of the bidding and, particularly, the redouble, it was inconceivable that North had the club ace. Thus, the proposition was, as I see it, just this: From South's point of view it should have seemed much more likely that North held the club queen and had made an error than that he held the club ace and was playing properly. Accepting this as a sound premise, South should have laid down the club king and, thereby, made it impossible for his partner to block the suit.

I feel sure that, on due consideration, my correspondent will be the first to see the justice of my remarks.

CUBS DEFEAT CARDS, 6-5; SOX OVERWHELM BROWNS, 17-4

MARTY'S HOMER AIDS BRYANT TO FIRST VICTORY

Champions Chase Paul Dean in 4th.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Clay Bryant and eight associate Cubs this afternoon won a tough tussle with seventeen Cardinals to take the odd game of the three game series, 6 to 5. The run which proved to be the winner was Joe Marty's sixth inning homer with one on, though the Cubs suffered many chills thereafter. It was Marty's second homer of the series.

Bryant yielded eight hits to ten by the Cubs off three of the parade of five enemy pitchers, but two of them were home run smashes by Ducky Medwick and Johnny Mize. Fortunately, Ducky and John picked spots when none was on base, there being other junctures when they could have done devastating damage. It was Bryant's first victory and his first start of the new season.

The contest proved exciting for the crowd of 19,106 paying guests, many of whom were lured by the advertised comeback effort of the St. Louis member of the ailing Dean family. In the first three innings Paul looked like a hero. He held the Cubs to a wasted triple by Bill Herman. During this first third of the game the Cards took the lead on Medwick's homer, a hit batsman and a triple by Lynn Myers.

Paul Goes Away in Fourth.

The St. Louis customers cooled considerably in the fourth when a single by Herman, a double by Jim Gleeson, singles by Hank Leiber and Gus Mancusco and a double by Dickie Bartell produced four Cub runs and the vanishment of Paul Dean.

In the sixth the Cubs went ahead, 6 to 2, on Leiber's single and Marty's homer, but the interest of the home partisans was revived by Mize's homer. In the eighth the Cards moved up to within one of a tie by scoring two runs on Lynn King's pinch double with the bases full but the inning ended a bit later when Don Gutteridge flied out, also with the bases loaded.

Bryant walked the first man up in the ninth but made Medwick fly out and then had a double play in the making only to have the nerve racking spectacle prolonged when Phil Cavarretta dropped the ball on what should have been a game ending maneuver. However, the game ended on a pop fly seconds later.

Herman's Triple Wasted.

The Cubs developed the first threat of the game, but it didn't quite jell. With one out in the opening inning Herman tripled off the right field wall. The effort was in vain, for Gleeson popped to Mize and Moore got under Leiber's long fly.

It was three up and three down for the Cardinals in the first inning and the same for the Cubs in the second. Medwick led off the home second with his homer, a line shot into the pavilion in deep right center. Mize bounced to Cavarretta, after which Moore was hit by a pitched ball. Owen fanned, then Moore stole second and scored when Myers bounced a triple off the left

INDIANS LEARN ROWE MEANS IT; TIGERS WIN, 8-0

Schoolboy's Comeback Is On; Yields 4 Hits.

Cleveland, O., April 23.—(AP)—Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit's comeback pitcher, got off to an excellent start today by holding the Cleveland Indians to four hits as the Tigers took the third and last game of a series, 8 to 0. The Indians won the first two contests.

Detroit's sluggers collected fifteen hits off Mel Harder, Bill Zuber, and Al Milnar. The hits included a double by Charley Gehringer and a triple by Rowe.

The defeat dropped the Indians into second place, a half game behind the New York Yankees. Score:

SEWELL SIGNED BY CLEVELAND; HEMSLEY HURT

Cleveland, O., April 23.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians today signed Luke Sewell, veteran catcher, to plug a gap caused by an injury to Rollie Hemsley.

Sewell, 38 years old, worked out with the team before today's game with Detroit. He was with the Indians from 1921 to 1932 and then went to Washington. He played with the Chicago White Sox before going to Brooklyn last fall. Brooklyn gave him his unconditional release last week.

Doctors said Hemsley would be out of the game "indefinitely." He pulled a muscle in his side throwing out a runner at second base on the final play of Saturday's game with the Tigers.

Europe's Finest! Chicago Awaits Them

These seven young men, the finest boxers in Europe and the British Isles, sail Wednesday for Chicago to meet the Golden Gloves team in the Stadium on May 12. Left to right, they are Guido Nardecchia of Italy, bantamweight; Olli Lehtinen, Finland, flyweight; Eric Agren, Sweden, welterweight; Anton Raadik, Estonia, middleweight; Egisto Peire, Italy, lightweight; Luigi Musina, Italy, light heavyweight, and Nemeno Lazzari, Italy, heavyweight. Cubs Open at Home Against Pirates Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Earl Whitehill, 39 year old southpaw, is scheduled to pitch Chicago's National league opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates in Wrigley field tomorrow afternoon. If Earl starts, his appearance will be unusual for the following reasons:

1. He has not pitched an inning this spring.

2. He will be pitching his first National league game barely on the sunny side of 40.

3. No National leaguer ever has made a run off him in regular season or world series play; he pitched one game for the Senators in the 1933 world series and shut out the Giants, 4 to 0.

4. National leaguers who have not faced Earl in spring exhibitions never have seen a lefty delivery like his. Right handed Freddy Fitzsimmons of Brooklyn is the closest approach.

Jim Tobin is scheduled to pitch for the Pirates.

Paul Dean's uniform number is 22, same as brother Dizzy's. The Cub Dean, who had a fine workout in batting practice today, predicted he would finish third in victories in the National league this year. He allows Bill Lee and Clay Bryant are the only gents with a chance to finish ahead of him.

The Cubs are hoping for even a part way approximation of the perfect weather they have enjoyed here. They were hopeful that rain forecasts for Chicago they heard over their radios were mere rumors.

Manager Gabby Hartnett plans to start the same lineup in the Chicago opener that he started in all the games here, including Gus Mancuso as the catcher and Jim Gleeson in left field.

Von Cramm, McNeill Go to Athens Tennis Final

ATHENS, April 23.—(AP)—Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City today won their way into the final round of the eastern Mediterranean tennis tournament. Von Cramm beat Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, while McNeill defeated Karle Schroeder, Swedish internationalist, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

GABBY HARTNETT has a fine chance to answer Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, who recently criticized the Cubs' leader for removing himself from the lineup after the Yankees won the third straight game in last year's world series. . . . Durocher made two errors in the opening contest this season and his name was nowhere to be seen in the second game against the Giants. . . . Just to keep the record straight,

Ernie Nevers.

Doc Prothro.

Man o' War lost one race in his career. . . . His conqueror was named Upset, which seems appropriate enough. . . . The defeat occurred at Saratoga in 1919. . . . The $185,584 receipts at the Tommy Loughran-Mickey Walker fight, which marked the opening of Chicago Stadium, still stand as an indoor record. . . . You could pick a pretty fair team from former major league stars now managing minor league clubs. . . . Ray Schalk would be your catcher, with Jack Burns on first, Rogers Hornsby at second, Roger Peckinpaugh at shortstop, and Johnny Vergez at third. . . . Rabbit Maranville and Glenn Wright would do as utility infielders. . . . The outfield would come from a group that includes Mule Haas, Lefty O'Doul, Riggs Stephenson, Kiki Cuyler, and Goose Goslin. . . . The pitching staff would number Burleigh Grimes, Vic Sorrell, Lee Meadows, and Claude Jonnard, and if another catcher is needed, how about Wally Schang? . . . This outfit wouldn't need a manager. . . .

Ernie Nevers, Cardinals' coach, thinks the forward pass is overrated as a scoring weapon. . . . Florida's effort to establish a hockey league failed for the same reason that almost all after dark promotions fail down there. . . . Every one goes to the dog tracks. . . . Doc Prothro, new manager of the Phillies, has one of the major league's most extensive wardrobes. . . . It numbers about twenty-five suits. . . . Johnny Evers, owner of the Albany club, has a convincing argument when beseiged by requests for passes. . . . He pays his way every day. . . . Joie Ray, the Glen Cunningham of fifteen years ago, is manager of an agricultural nursery for a Hammond steel company. . . . El Chico has gained 100 pounds since he began training for the Kentucky Derby. . . . Tom Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, once played second base for Yale.

Cub War Cry.

Let's get down to biz,
We're backin' ol' Diz
Who's always been itchin'
To do us some pitchin'
Play ball.

The docs in their huddle
Are still in a muddle,
The pesky x-ray
We're throwin' away,
That ain't all.

Sore ankles or knees
We'll forget if you please,
No more bellyachin'
That pennant we're takin'
This fall.

OWEN GETS FOUR DOUBLES AS SOX BAT OUT 19 HITS

Pound Marcum, 3 Others; Rigney Goes Route.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox bats, dormant in the first three games this season, came to life yesterday. They beat a merry, melodius tattoo against the pitching of various fellows to pile up nineteen hits for thirty-seven bases. This was more than enough to crush the St. Louis Browns in the final of a two game series, 17 to 4. The four runs were all that the Browns could harvest from the assortment served by John Dungan Rigney, the River Forest phenom.

If the 12,000 spectators came out in hopes of observing hitting they weren't disappointed. The Sox gave them everything from singles up to homers. Eric McNair, Gerald Walker, and Mike Kreevich whistled drives into the seats. Kreevich also supplied a triple, this being his maiden hit of the campaign. And there was an imposing quantity of doubles, four by Marvin Owen, to permit the ex-Tiger to take his place alongside the many others who have a slice of this major league record.

Marcum Gets Hazing.

Johnny Marcum was started against the Sox, possibly because he was known to cause them anguish when he was with Boston. Marcum was squelched emphatically and hurriedly. McNair's homer accounted for two of three runs in the first inning. Another trio scored in the second. When Marcum encountered a third assault in the fifth he was withdrawn. And thereafter the Sox had fun in a big way, especially in the sixth when one Ewald Pyle was put on a five run merry go round. Part of this whirl came from home runs by Walker and Kreevich.

Rigney never had much reason to fret. His lead was always comfortable after the second inning, in which the Browns moved close on a two run homer by Myril Hoag. In the remaining seven innings he yielded only six hits, two of these coming in the fifth to score the last Brownie runs. However, he did have some trouble in the seventh when a brace of passes and a hit loaded the bases with one out. Luke Appling yanked him from this jam by stabbing Almada's line drive and stepping on second for a double play.

They Turn on the Power.

The Sox demonstrated the value of power in the first inning. They scored three runs on two hits. Owen opened with a drive so close to the left field scoreboard that Bell could not make a catch, the ball landing safely for a double. Owen went to third on Kuhel's fly to right, and home on Walker's low fly to Bell. Appling got to base on a pass issued by Marcum, and a moment later

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 23.—Europe named its International Golden Gloves team tonight and issued a ringing challenge to Chicago. Before a capacity crowd in the Irish National stadium, boxers from six nations were selected to meet Chicago's Golden Glovers in Chicago Stadium on May 12.

The finest fighters in Ireland, Italy, Finland, Sweden, Poland and Estonia were given places on the squad which leaves for London tomorrow night and sails on the Normandie from Southampton on Wednesday. They are:

Flyweight—Olli Lehtinen, Finland.
Bantamweight—Guido Nardecchia, Italy.
Featherweight—Pat Dowdall, Ireland; Anton Czortek, Poland, alternate.
Lightweight—Egisto Peire, Italy.
Welterweight—Antoni Kolczynski, Poland; Eric Agren, Sweden, alternate.
Middleweight—Anton Raadik, Estonia.
Light Heavyweight—Luigi Musina, Italy.
Heavyweight—Nemeno Lazzari, Italy.

Strongest European Team.

In seven years of International Golden Gloves competition, Europe has not been represented by as formidable a squad as that which was assembled tonight. The winners were picked after a week of fighting in the National stadium, a monument to international amity erected by the Irish Boxing federation and devoted almost exclusively to amateur boxing.

"At last," said Dr. Arthur de Kankovsky, secretary of the International Boxing federation, who will be in charge of the squad in Chicago, "we finally have a team which can match your champions in America, where punch is more important than sparring ability. I am looking forward to this trip with a great deal of pleasure and anticipation. This is the year we will be able to meet you at your own game without the least apprehension."

Alternates in Two Divisions.

Alternates were named in the welterweight and featherweight divisions, where the championships were won by men in service. Pat Dowdall, the two fisted Irish Free State infantryman, who scored the major upset of the finals by beating Anton Czortek of Poland after Czortek had advanced to the last round with three knockouts, earned the right to go to Chicago, but when it was announced he would be unable to obtain leave from the army, Czortek was named an alternate.

Later, however, the minister of defense, Frank Aiken, ordered Dowdall's leave granted because of the large Irish population in Chicago and Ireland's desire to participate in an international event of such importance in boxing as Golden Gloves. Czortek, it was said tonight, might also be taken to the United States.

Kolczynski Retains Title.

Antoni Kolczynski, one of the outstanding fighters in the entire tournament, who retained the European welterweight championship, is a soldier in the Polish army and it was doubtful if he could obtain leave to make the trip, necessitating the appointment of an alternate, Eric Agren

SIMMONS BOXES RANKIN TONIGHT ON NORTH SIDE

Nyberg and Kontopolis Meet in Rematch.

Marty Simmons, stocky Saginaw, Mich., 167 pound slugger, will make his second attempt for a Chicago victory in a ten round bout tonight with Oscar Rankin of Los Angeles in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

In his previous test Simmons went ten rounds to a draw with Nate Bolden in the same arena March 13. Rankin also battled Bolden, losing a close decision in twelve rounds in White City April 14.

Rankin showed few results of a five month layoff prior to the Bolden fight. At the end of ten rounds Oscar had a lead, but this margin vanished in the last two rounds when he became tired.

Nyberg Boxes Kontopolis.

In the five round semi-final Manager Jack Hurley is sending George Nyberg, Port Arthur, Ont., welterweight, against George Kontopolis for the second time. Kontopolis, former novice Golden Gloves 147 pound title holder, held George to a four round draw in their earlier contest. Nyberg whipped Dean Baker last Monday to keep his record clear of defeats.

Other encounters, each at four rounds, bring together Tommy Howell and Lloyd Elzy, Earl Gibbs and Sam Scully, and Bob Ray and Selman Martin.

Stanley [Kid] Yoakum, the old Denver lightweight, and Kid Howard will second Simmons, while Larry Amadee, trainer for John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight title holder, and George Trafton will be corner men for Rankin.

A series of amateur boxing matches will be offered in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, this evening, headed by a three round exhibition between Battling Nelson, former lightweight ruler, and Johnny Coulon, former bantamweight title holder. Fights will include those between John Winter and Henry Reformant, Alex Paul and Vernel Williams, Bill Zilkie and Bob Liggett, Jack Fish and John Kowolski. Williams is a Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight finalist.

The Jewish Men's club of Ravenswood will conduct its annual athletic show tonight in the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall, 4432 North Kedzie avenue. Among those who will participate are James C. Mullen, Illinois' oldest promoter; Johnny Behr, 1936 American Olympic boxing coach; Jack Blackburn, trainer for Joe Louis; Altus Allen, 1939 intercity Golden Gloves heavyweight winner; Milt Aron, No. 4 welterweight challenger; Sol Butler, former Olympic track star; Leo Rodak, leading contender for the featherweight title, and Jack Manders and Luke Johnsos of the Chicago Bears football team.

The wrestling show scheduled in Cicero stadium Wednesday has been postponed until May 3. F. M.

Europe Picks Champions to Fight Chicago

of Sweden, who was beaten by Kolczynski in the finals tonight.

Dr. Wladyslaw Mirzynski, a representative of the Polish boxing federation, hurried to London tonight to obtain a leave of absence for Kolczynski from the Polish war ministry through Poland's consul. Kolczynski fought in Chicago last year. He is the heavy fisted young man who knocked out Jimmy O'Malley, Chicago's highly regarded welterweight, in a stunning upset.

Germany failed to place a man on the team, although Herbert Nurnberg, a member of the 1937 and 1938 international teams which fought in Chicago, retained the lightweight championship of Europe. Orders awaited all German finalists after the tournament to return at once to Germany. Official explanation of the action was that the boxers must begin training immediately for the Olympic games in 1940.

Pressure of military service also kept Oscar Tandberg of Sweden, the heavyweight who has mowed down all opposition for the last three years, from making the trip. Lazzari slugged it out with Tandberg and rocked the Swede in the second and third rounds, but he was unable to overcome Tandberg's advantage in strength and height and lost the decision to Tandberg's whirlwind finish. The crowd disapproved of the decision and cheered Lazzari's selection.

Coach Approves Changes.

Lehtinen and Nardecchia owe their places on the team to circumstances which prevented champions from making the trip, although Steve Klaus, the American trainer of Italian teams, who will condition the squad and handle it in Chicago, preferred them to the titleholders. The flyweight championship went to Jimmy Ingle of Ireland, whose defeat by Nardecchia in the semi-finals was reversed by a jury of appeals after a prolonged demonstration by Irish fans. Ingle, however, was unable to get a leave of absence from his job as a wood worker by which he supports his entire family.

Nardecchia was the logical alternate in this division, but it was given to Lehtinen when Nardecchia was selected to replace his countryman, Ulderico Sergo, the perennial European champion who was deprived of his fouth trip to Chicago by military duty. Nardecchia frequently has fought as a bantamweight, but came to this tournament as a flyweight to strengthen the Italian team. Sergo defeated Miki Bondi of Hungary, a former International Golden Glover in the bantamweight final. Bondi also was unable to get permission to go to the United States.

Four of Ten Are Veterans.

Four of the ten members of the team are International Golden Gloves veterans. Lehtinen, Nardecchia, Kolczynski, and Musina have been in Chicago before. A fifth, Agren, was a member of the 1937 European team, but turned back at New York after a seige of illness aboard ship made it impossible for him to compete in Chicago.

Lehtinen lost a decision to Walter Cavalieri in the Chicago Stadium last year, after nearly flooring Cavalieri in the first round. Nardecchia gave Johnny Noto of Chicago a thorough trouncing in a preliminary bout to last year's international contests. Kolczynski, of course, will be remembered as the methodical assassin who floored the hard punching O'Malley, Chicago Golden Glove and national A. A. U. welterweight champion, five times in the first round. Musina punched out a decision in the light heavyweight bout for Italy in the Stadium in 1937.

Keep Your Eyes on Raadik.

The International Federation will send to Chicago one boxer, Raadik, the Esthonian middleweight, who might very well improve on Kolczynski's performance against O'Malley. Raadik, the sensation of the week's fighting, was the hardest and most accurate puncher in the tournament.

Moving forward continually with a constant barrage of lefts and rights, he completely dominated the middleweights who constituted the most formidable division in the tournament. His fight with Viljo Suhonen of Finland was the most riotous of the week. He swept aside Suhonen and Ossie Davis in his march to the finals, where he gave Josef Pisarski of Poland, a rugged fighter with a powerful left hand, a sound trouncing.

Germans Beat Scandinavians for Kelly Cup

BY OFFSIDE.

The German-American. All-Stars defeated the Scandinavians, 2 to 1, yesterday in Sparta stadium to win the Mayor Edward J. Kelly trophy. In the second game of the double-header the International league All-Star team triumphed, 4 to 1, over the Lindell's of St. Louis.

Fred Brinkman, outside left, scored both of the Germans' goals, the first coming eighteen minutes through the opening period on a successful penalty kick against Fred Quirst and the second late in the game on a fifty yard run. Brinkman's second goal broke a 1 to 1 deadlock which the Scandanavians had created with a penalty shot by Ened Arndt eight minutes after the intermission.

The International leaguers outplayed the Lindell's throughout, holding a 1 to 0 at the half on Tomecek's shot and adding three more in the second period while restricting the St. Louis eleven to one, that by Averez. Kilgour scored twice and Galagher once for the Internationals in the last period.

The Manhattan Brewers, who meet the St. Mary's Celtics of Brooklyn, N. Y., next week for the national championship, were scheduled to play the American Nickeloids in a tuneup game yesterday, but the Nickeloids failed to appear. The Maccabee A. C. won, 4 to 2, from the Swedish-Americans to advance into the final round in the Illinois district play for the National Junior Soccer cup.

The Oak Park Acorns beat Moline, 2 to 1, in Moline, and Joliet triumphed over Dalzell, Ill., 3 to 1, in Joliet.

MONARCHS WIN TWO GAMES IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Monarchs tightened their hold on first place in the Sunday division of the Classic league last night by winning three games from the Ambrosia team at the Marzano Clearing Recreation. The second place Schlitz team dropped one game to the Pragers. The Baby Ruths won two from Pabst, and the Power House five defeated the Thompsons twice.

Trap Shooters Ready Guns for Two Big Meets

BY BOB BECKER.

Trap shooters in Chicagoland will burn many thousands of rounds of ammunition during the next two weeks in the central states skeet meet and the Grand Chicago handicap.

The central event is scheduled for April 29 and 30 at the Northwest Gun club, 20 miles northwest of Chicago on highway 21. The April 29 program will decide the junior central states championship, the ladies' 100 target championship, small gauge central states championship, and the 20 gauge central states championship.

Shoot at Lincoln Park.

On Sunday, April 30, the following events are listed: All bore, individual, all bore class A, B, and C, five man team, high over all individual, and professional central states championships. The program for the two days will bring together most of the best skeet shots in this area.

On May 6 and 7 the Lincoln Park traps in Chicago will be the scene of a series of clay target events leading up to the Grand Chicago handicap.

At 1 p. m. Saturday contestants will shoot in the 100 target, 16 yard event. The compulsory entry fee, which includes targets and trophies, is $4. The second event of the afternoon calls for 50 handicap targets [17 to 24 yards] with a total compulsory fee of $1.50 which also includes targets.

Handicap on May 7.

On Sunday morning, May 7, the program starts with the 100 shoot, 16 yard target event. Immediately following will be the Grand Chicago handicap, 100 handicap targets, 17 to 24 yards. Leaders in this event will get cash in addition to trophies, and the winner will have his name engraved on the $1,000 Grand Chicago handicap trophy. This trophy was presented to the Lincoln park traps by the Association of Commerce and has been in competition for many years.

Trap shooters who wish further information about the Grand Chicago handicap may contact Ray Loring, manager of the Lincoln park traps.

GUMBERT STOPS BEES; GIANTS TRIUMPH, 4 TO 2

Holds Boston to One Hit Until Seventh.

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Timely hitting and the capable hurling of Harry Gumbert gave the New York Giants a 4 to 2 victory over the Boston Bees today and a favorable margin for their first series of the season at the Polo Grounds.

Gumbert, who succeeded Carl Hubbell as No. 1 man on the New York mound staff, nearly obtained a shutout as he chalked up his second straight triumph. Until the seventh inning he allowed the Bees only one scratch hit. They bunched three in the seventh without scoring, but made two runs on three safeties in the ninth.

The Giants scored twice in the second on three singles and an infield out, and another in the third on a single, double and infield out. Zeke Bonura singled in the final run in the seventh.

HOOSIER TAKES A. B. C. SINGLES LEAD WITH 720

Cleveland, O., April 23.—[Special.]—Don Johnson of Indianapolis, Ind., who won the American Bowling congress doubles championship last year with Fonnie Snyder, took the lead in the singles division tonight with a 720 total. The Hoosier, 35 years old, posted games of 226, 269, and 225.

Only once in A. B. C. history has a man annexed two consecutive minor event championships, Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee, winning the doubles with Charley Daw in 1932, and then setting the all-time record of 1,415 paired with Gil Zunker the following year.

Chicagoan Tops Leader.

Johnson's score marked the second time today that the 714 total scored by Carl Nagle of Gowanda, N. Y., was beaten. It had stood as the singles high for thirty-eight days. Rolling on an earlier squad, Walter Szykowny of Chicago totaled 717.

Szykowny — the letters mean "handy" in English—opened with a 214 score, added 266 in the second game, and finished with 237, for a 239 average.

Leaves No. 4 Pin Wabbling.

The Chicagoan left the No. 4 pin wabbling between strikes in the seventh frame of the last game. Needing a spared tenth frame to take the lead, Szykowny's first ball sailed into the head pin but he left the No. 6 and 10 pins standing. His second spare shot was close to being a cherry pick but the No. 10 pin finally fell.

Szykowny, whose previous national tournament experience was limited to the Chicago tournament of 1929, scored 602 in the team event and preceded his high solo count with a mark of 552. It was his highest total in a twenty year tenpin career.

Art Hennig Scores 697.

Art Hennig was second high among the Chicagoans with a 697. Hennig, member of the Chris Bauer five, crashed through with 697 on games of 213, 258, 226, while teammate Charley Wensel hung up 675. Chicago scores: started the long journey toward the plate propelled by the McNair homer which settled into the first story of the left field pavilion.

Sox Hammer Browns Into Defeat, 17-4

The Browns developed the home run fever in the second inning and two-thirds of the Sox lead was shot down. Bell led off with an innocent looking roller toward first base, but just as Kuhel reached for the ball it took a hop over his hands and went for a single. Clift lined to Kreevich and Hoag then presented a home run ball to a customer in the right field stand.

And Three More.

A double play put a crimp in the Sox in the second inning, but didn't prevent them from accumulating three more runs. After Kreevich had popped out, Silvestri made two bases on a fly which fell in short center. He sauntered home on a double off the left field wall by Rigney. Owen's fly fell in short right for a double, but Rigney went only as far as third. The Browns' outfield still played deep, despite the Silvestri and Owen hits, so there was nobody available to get Kuhel's fly in short center. It turned out to be a single, Rigney and Owen scoring. Then the double play was accomplished on Walker's roller to Heffner.

The Sox didn't break out again until after two were gone in the fourth. Rigney singled and Owen collected one of those drooping two base hits to short center. Both scored on Kuhel's double to right. The Browns retrieved these two runs in the fifth on a single by Pinch Batter Grace, a pass to Heffner, and a double to left center by Bell. The Sox countered with one in their half off Trotter, this being the spot in which Kreevich tripled for his first hit of the year to drive in Steinbacher.

They March On.

Owen was thrown out to start the sixth, but the five run parade at Pyle's expense formed immediately. Kuhel singled to center and scored on Walker's homer into the left field stands. Appling aimed a single past Berardino, and Kress, who supplanted Heffner at short, fumbled McNair's grounder. Steinbacher then popped out, but not Kreevich. He whacked his homer to left for his second hit of the season. This made it 14 to 4.

Pyle fanned Rigney to start the seventh and then another batch of trouble popped up. Owen's fourth double was aimed into right center. He scored on Kuhel's single to right. Walker also singled to right. Pyle was in such a daze that Kuhel and Walker pulled a steal of second and third while he was fondling the ball. The bases were loaded when Appling walked. McNair singled into center, Kuhel and Walker counting.

The White Sox will spend the next three days, weather permitting, exhibiting themselves alongside the Indians in Cleveland Thornton [Lefty] Lee, who was tagged by Hank Greenberg for the homer which decided last Thursday's fourteen inning struggle in Detroit, will pitch against John Humphries, the Indians' right hander, this afternoon.

Jack Hayes and Vic Frasier weren't included in the Cleveland expedition. Hayes will take daily workouts on his bum knee. Frasier, whose skull was fractured during spring training, will continue his walking exercises.

Manager Jimmy Dykes has to peel three names from his roster to ring it down to the twenty-five limit, but has until May 18 to sharpen the axe. He probably will unload two kid pitchers and one of his six outfielders.

Ken Silvestri, the Sox kid catcher, who seems to have trouble making the throw back to the pitcher, recorded his first assist of the season on a steal. He made a perfect throw to Appling to cut down Don Heffner, who attempted larceny after drawing a pass in the opening inning.

Bang! And Sox Lead

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Eric McNair, the White Sox's new second baseman, snapped as he lashed out a home run in the first inning against the Browns yesterday to give the Sox a 3 to 0 lead. They won, 17 to 4. The catcher is Billy Sullivan.

field wall. Paul Dean flied to Marty.

The Cubs' 16 inning run famine ended in the fourth. Herman singled and stopped at third on Gleeson's double to right center. Leiber singled to left center, scoring Herman and Gleeson with the tying runs. Marty flied to Moore and Cavarretta fouled to Mize, but Mancuso got things going again with a single past Myers. Bartell then doubled to left center, scoring his two fellow ex-Giants, Leiber and Mancuso.

Shoun Gets a Reception.

Shoun was touched up merrily immediately on his entrance at the start of the sixth. Leiber whanged a single to left and reached second when Medwick juggled the ball. Marty followed with his homer, a drive into the left field bleachers, a dozen feet inside the foul line.

From the second inning until Slaughter and Medwick had fouled out in the sixth, Bryant held the Cards to one hit, a single by Medwick in the fourth. But with those two down in the sixth Mize socked his homer into the left field bleachers, an unusual place for a Mize homer to land.

That Medwick Man Again.

Medwick opened the eighth with his third hit, a double to left, and Mize walked. Moore was called out on strikes, after which Owen walked on four pitches, loading the bases. Pepper Martin batted for Myers and forced Medwick at the plate, Bryant to Mancuso. A double play was in sight, but Mancuso had to leap high into the air to get Bryant's rather panicky throw for the single forceout.

King then batted for Davis and the Cubs thought they had him struck out, but Umpire Barr said no. King then lined a double to left, Mize and Owen scoring and Martin stopping at third. Brown was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. The excitement subsided when Gutteridge flied to Leiber.

McGee, fifth Card pitcher, was in there at the start of the ninth. Bartell opened with his second double, a shot off the right field wall. Bryant doubled to center. Moore misjudged the ball, then trapped it. The Cardinals vainly argued Moore had made a clean catch. Bartell, who held up at second during Moore's diving act, was obliged to stop at third. Hack was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Herman ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then bounced into a double play, Mize to Owen to Mize. Brown threw out Gleeson.

Zig-Zag.

When the classic sayings of all of time
Into one group are bagged,
Let's not overlook Jack Roper's:
"I zigged when I ought to o' zagged."

That was his only alibi
As from the ring he wearily sagged,
"The trouble was, I made a mistake,
I zigged when I ought to o' zagged."

Of course I don't know what he meant
As into his corner he sagged,
Mouthing that epochal utterance:
"I zigged when I ought to o' zagged."

And haven't we all felt just that way
When defeat at our heels has nagged?
Maybe 'twould all have been different
If we'd "zigged" instead of "zagged."

So watch your step, every one of you,
However weary or fagged,
And be careful never, never to zig
When the thing to do is to zag!
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY
A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM
IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy ... Leaves Skin Soft

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men is required to shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TAX LOAD HURTS U. S., BROOKINGS REPORT WARNS

Urges Reforms to Aid Capital Flow.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The Brookings institution recommended today that the federal tax system be drastically overhauled because, it said, existing levies are choking the flow of private funds into investment channels.

The institution, a private research organization, suggested among other things abolition of the tax on intercorporate dividends and reduction of surtax rates on incomes in the higher brackets. It proposed abolition of the tax on undistributed profits, elimination of the normal income tax on corporate dividends, and disregard of capital gains and losses in computing taxes on corporation income.

The conclusions were contained in a report prepared for the institution by Dr. James D. Magee of New York university. The study is one phase of an inquiry by the institution into the subject of "capital expansion, employment and economic stability."

Tells Basis of System.

"In the development of the present tax system," Dr. Magee said, "emphasis has been placed on such matters as ease of collection, equitable distribution of the tax burden, redistribution of national income, and the promotion of other economic and social objectives.

"Little heed has been paid to the effect on investment and capital formation. As a result, the nation is now confronted with a situation where a clear cut choice must be made, namely, to continue the present tax system, which arrests the flow of funds into new capital enterprises, or to modify the system in the interest of industrial expansion, greater employment, and higher standards of living."

Treasury officials now are considering what tax modifications are desirable. What amendments the administration will back may be made known this week, as the treasury studies are reported near completion. President Roosevelt told a press conference last Tuesday that he expected to confer with congressional leaders in a week or ten days on tax revision.

Sharp Tax Increase Cited.

The Brookings report, calling attention to the sharp increase in taxes in recent years, declared that this rise told "only part of the story."

"Even the greatly increased taxes of the thirties," it said, "have fallen short of expenditures by about 2.77 billion dollars annually, while the smaller taxes of the twenties permitted an annual reduction in the national debt of approximately 800 million."

Dr. Magee contended that the danger point in national debt was "that point at which it becomes difficult, as a practical matter, to bring the budget into balance." He added that unless "we can promptly secure a substantial increase in the national income it will be necessary to conclude that the United States has already reached a danger point in the growth of public indebtedness."

No Estimate of Revenue Loss.

He said the report had not attempted to estimate the amount of revenue that would be lost from the suggested changes or to suggest other taxes to make up the deficiency.

But he added: "It is our view that even if there should be, immediately speaking, a considerable net reduction in tax revenues, the gains resulting would, in the near future, much more than offset the probable revenue losses.

"An expansion of capital enterprise is the only means whereby the unemployment problem can be solved and the present oppressive burden of relief lifted."

The report made these other recommendations:

1. Reduction of old age annuity rates under the social security act from 1 per cent to ½ of 1 per cent; financing the annuities on a pay-as-you-go basis rather than by accumulation of a "huge reserve"; and separation of the financial administration of the system from the fiscal operations of the treasury.

Administration Proposes Cut.

[The administration has proposed a temporary reduction in these levies and accumulation of only a small contingency reserve rather than the large reserve proposed under the original act. It also has approved divorcing administration of the fund from the treasury.]

2. Allow small corporations a credit of $3,000 in computing income tax and permit deduction from income of corporation operating losses for a two-year period.

3. Elimination of capital stock and excess profits taxes.

BANK SEES PACT WITH BRAZIL AS OUTLET FOR GOLD

Views Accord as Benefit to United States.

New York, April 23.—(AP)—The Guaranty Survey, monthly organ of Guaranty Trust company, in its current issue, out today, praised the recent agreements between Brazil and the United States as furnishing a possible means of redistributing the huge monetary gold stock of the United States. The American gold holdings total about $15,605,000,000, or 58 per cent of the world's total known supply.

Under the agreements mentioned, said the publication, "Brazil proposes, among other things, to remove official restrictions on exchange operations, to create a central reserve bank, to resume payments on external dollar obligations, and to guarantee to United States investors equality of treatment with its own citizens.

Cites Condition of Pact.

"The United States agrees to provide financial aid to Brazil, including a loan up to the sum of $50,000,000 in gold for the use of the proposed central bank, repayment to be made from Brazil's production of the metal, which amounts to approximately $5,000,000 a year," the magazine said.

"Extension of this general principle over a wider field would seem to offer promising possibilities for reaching a constructive solution of the gold problem. By this plan the gold would be used to promote financial rehabilitation abroad, permitting the gradual removal of excessive trade barriers and exchange restrictions, with resulting benefits, indirectly, to international commerce as a whole.

Tells Advantages to United States.

"For the use of the gold the United States would receive not only a direct pecuniary return but also specific trade and financial concessions for the benefit of its traders and investors.

"Incidentally, but perhaps even more significantly in the long run, such a policy would mark a new departure in the promotion of international coöperation and good will."

GERMANY SURPASSES AMERICA IN 1938 AS EXPORTER TO BRAZIL

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, April 23.—Germany's exports to Brazil in 1938 surpassed those of the United States except in the month of December, when the United States sold Brazil 1 per cent more than did Germany, an official compilation showed today.

The United States sold to Brazil last year goods valued at $71,508,372. Germany sold goods valued at $73,808,784.

On the other hand, Brazil's exports to the United States were almost double those to Germany. The United States purchased from Brazil in 1938 goods valued at $101,477,004. Germany purchased goods worth $56,328,936.

Berlin Finance Leaders Doubt War by Hitler

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 23.—[Special.]—Although admitting that nobody can predict what Reichsfuehrer Hitler will do, financial leaders here assert that in the settlement of international problems no sudden resort to war is to be expected now. It is believed Hitler, in his forthcoming reply to President Roosevelt's peace offer, will declare the proposal is impracticable and will advance several reasons.

As to what Hitler will demand, it is expected he will insist that Germany should command adequate economic [not necessarily political] domination over a sufficiently wide area to assure her a permanent supply of all needed foodstuffs and raw materials, exempt from all outside interference.

Doubt Action on Colonies.

However, contrary to popular expectation, it is not thought in financial circles that great emphasis will be laid on immediate satisfaction of the German colonial claims.

In the first place, Germany now will be obliged to concentrate all of her available material resources on equipping Rumania with an efficient transport system and oil boring and power generation plants to exploit this "bird in the hand."

See Big Field in Spain.

In addition, as was pointed out Friday at the shareholders' meeting of the Deutsche Uberseeische bank in Berlin, three years of civil conflict in Spain have left such devastation there that German industry, being in a privileged position on ideological grounds, will find an almost infinite field for activity in Spain for years to come.

Also, Hitler at present does not want to weaken his position strategically, as Premier Mussolini has done in Africa, by undertaking new responsibilities overseas in territories hard to defend.

CHICAGO MOTOR TRUCK CONCERN BOOSTS PROFIT

Improvement in first quarter operations was shown yesterday in a report of the Diamond T Motor Car company, Chicago manufacturer of trucks. It showed a net profit of $46,295 for the three months ended March 31, compared with a net loss of $19,856 in the corresponding period of 1938. Dollar volume of truck and parts sales improved 10 per cent, the report said.

The Union Carbide and Carbon corporation reported first quarter net income of $5,293,885, equal to 58 cents a share, compared with $4,209,333 in the first three months of 1938, or 47 cents a share.

COPPER TO OIL?

Investors' Guide: Last fall I bought 100 shares of Anaconda Copper for $34 a share. Now it has dropped to $24. I am thinking of selling the Anaconda and using the money to buy 200 shares of Tidewater Associated Oil at $12 a share. My reason for doing so is that Tidewater seems to pay a higher dividend rate. Last year it paid $1 a share against Anaconda's 50 cents. This year it is paying the same rate and Anaconda has paid 25 cents. By getting twice as many shares of Tidewater as of Anaconda and by receiving twice as much in dividends per share, I could quadruple my income. Is there some flaw in this?—M. T.

Answer: Based only on last year's records of the two companies, you would, as you say, have received four times as much in dividends from Tidewater as from Anaconda.

There are other factors to consider, however, in addition to the dividend record of one or two years. We should like to point out some of these factors and let you decide for yourself what to do. We do not make any suggestions one way or the other on what or when to buy and sell.

Look at the earnings records of the two companies for a period of years. Tidewater operated at a loss in only one year of the depression. Anaconda had losses in three depression years. The earnings of Anaconda, however, in good years have ranged as high as $3.62 a share in 1937 and $8.29 a share in 1929.

Tidewater's earnings reached a high of $2.08 a share in 1937. Thus, Anaconda's earnings are subject to more fluctuation than those of Tidewater, and this tendency is reflected in the market prices of the two stocks over a period of years.

For example, Anaconda stock in 1937 ranged from $24.50 to $69.50 a share. Tidewater's range was much narrower, from $13 to $21.50 a share.

You have already called attention to 1938 dividends. What about previous dividends? The trend is just about what you would expect. Anaconda dividends roughly follow earnings. In 1929 payments were $6.75 a share. In four depression years nothing was paid. Tidewater's dividends have ranged from nothing to $1.20 a share in the last ten years.

As you can see, last year's dividends are only one factor. How will dividends of the two companies compare in future years? This depends on future earnings. Income is one consideration, market appreciation is another. Past records show that when the stock market goes down Anaconda stock falls more rapidly than Tidewater stock. When the market has gone up Anaconda has gone up further.

We are sending you a report on each company, so that you may study in more detail their operations.

OUTPUT OF STEEL IS CURTAILED BY LAGGING DEMAND

The shallow volume of new business has reduced the national steel production rate to 50.5 per cent of capacity, the lowest this year. Further decrease in operations was foreseen yesterday by the magazine Steel.

The decline of 1 point in the national rate last week was caused by a drop of 2 points in Pittsburgh district production to 43 per cent, 2 points in Detroit to 57, 3 points in Cleveland to 36.5, and 5 points in Cincinnati to 46. Chicago district mills continued to operate at 53.5 per cent.

The market for scrap remained weak, but there were no further declines. The magazine's composite prices for scrap was unchanged at $14.46 per ton.

Stores Report Improvement in Inventories

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—The first retail inventory survey ever made by the department of commerce, made public today, showed that the cost value of inventories of independent stores at the end of 1938 was 9 per cent below that at the end of 1937. This decrease compared with a decline of 12½ per cent in 1938 sales from the sales figures of the preceding year.

The figures are based on more than 14,750 reports from retailers in twenty-seven states.

Wholesale inventories as reported by more than 1,400 firms representing approximately thirty trades declined 14 per cent in 1938.

Stocks Heavy at Start of 1938

The survey was made by the market research devision of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. In making public its findings Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said the absence of "overloaded" inventories in retail stores as compared with heavy stocks at the beginning of 1938 was one or the "healthier conditions of business at the beginning of this year."

He added that despite a falling off in retail sales last year retail inventories adjusted themselves favorably to the decline.

Auto Inventories Slashed.

The greatest decline in inventories last year was recorded by motor vehicle dealers. In that business cost inventories dropped 24 per cent from the 1937 figures, as compared with the sales decline of 27½ per cent. Inventories for furniture and household appliance dealers declined 12 per cent at the end of 1938, as compared with a sales decline of 18 per cent.

TRUCK FREIGHT VOLUME IN U. S. GAINS IN MARCH

Washington, D. C., April 23.—[Special.]—Freight movement by truck in March exceeded the tonnage of March, 1938, by 23.4 per cent and was 20.5 per cent above that of last February, the American Trucking association reported today. The report covered 210 motor carriers in thirty-eight states.

The association's truck loadings index for March stood at 118.98, compared with 83.11 for March, 1938, and 101.9 for February this year. The largest increase was shown in the transportation of automobiles, which was 29.1 per cent over February. This freight made up 6:2 per cent of the total reported.

LUMBER ORDERS IN WEEK TOP 1938 FIGURE BY THIRD

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers association reported tonight new orders during the week ended April 15 were 32 per cent larger than in the corresponding week last year and "maintained the comparatively high volume of the preceding four weeks."

During the week 524 reporting mills produced 207,404,000 feet of softwoods and hardwoods combined, shipped 220,262,000 feet and booked orders of 221,458,000 feet. Revised figures for the preceding week were: 535 mills, 205,414,000 feet produced, 205,394,000 shipped and 223,456,000 ordered.

U. S. MEDIATION MOVE ORDERED IN COAL TIEUP

Conference Called by Perkins Aid.

BULLETIN.

Logan, W. Va., April 23.—(AP)—The Logan Coal Operators' association voted unanimously today against conceding the United Mine Workers either a closed shop or any change in the strike penalty clause to reach an agreement on the Appalachian wage contract.

Washington, D. C., April 23.—(AP)—The government formally stepped into the deadlocked soft coal wage negotiations tonight with an announcement that John R. Steelman, federal conciliation service chief, would call the wage negotiators into a mediation conference tomorrow.

John R. Steelman.

Secretary of Labor Perkins announced that Steelman had been appointed a special government mediator to try to find a basis of settlement.

Mme. Perkins said Steelman would go to New York tomorrow with instructions to call the representatives of the Appalachian coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America [C. I. O.] together.

Meeting Not Compulsory.

Steelman's call for a mediation meeting will not be compulsory, but government officials said they expected both sides to agree to discuss the controversy over contract terms which has shut down the soft coal mines in the eight state Appalachian area and left about 338,000 miners idle since the old contract expired March 30.

Steelman and one of his aids, James F. Dewey, previously have appeared on the coal conference scene, but only in the role of observers.

If this step fails to bring the operators and miners together, the administration has another in reserve—the appointment of a special three-man mediation board.

Mine operators and the U. M. W. representatives have been discussing since March 14 terms for another contract.

Clash on Closed Shop.

The conferees have been deadlocked over the union's demands that the new contract include a closed shop for the U. M. W., or in place of that, elimination of strike penalty clauses against the union.

The administration has watched with growing concern the deadlock in the New York negotiations, particularly since the U. M. W. began preparing for a wider shutdown of the soft coal industry by calling out miners in districts outside the Appalachian field, including Illinois. That would affect about 125,000 soft coal diggers who have continued working under temporary agreements.

In Illinois, Joe Ozanic, international president of the Progressive Miners of America, has announced the P. M. A. will not join in a walkout.

John L. Lewis, head of the U. M. W., also has threatened to call out the anthracite miners.

The anthracite labor contract will expire April 30 and negotiations have been going on in New York for a new agreement.

Indiana Won't Aid Strikers.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 23.—(AP)—Clarence A. Jackson, director of the state unemployment commission, ruled today that Indiana coal miners who may become idle as a result of the present contract dispute will not be eligible for unemployment compensation.

Jackson said the Indiana law provides that workers who cease work voluntarily in a strike or a labor dispute are ineligible for the unemployment benefits. The present contract deadlock constitutes a labor dispute, he asserted.
